FACES SENATE CONTEMPT TRIAL

Names of 25 Drawn for Special Parole Jury

COUNTY PROBE EXPECTED TO TAKE 3 WEEKS

15 Of Group To Be Impaneled Monday At Courthouse For O.S.R. Investigation.

COUNTY FACES QUIZ BILLS

Duffy's Aid Says Expense Of Inquiry Up To Community In Which It's Held.

The names of 25 Mansfield and Richland county residents were drawn by the county jury commission yesterday afternoon for a special grand jury to investigate alleged parole irregularities at the Mansfield reformatory.

Scheduled to open Monday afternoon, the investigation probably will require three weeks, according to George Hurley, assistant attorney general, who was in Mansfield for the drawing.

Holds Probe at O. S. R.

A jury of 15 members will be impaneled by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston at the courthouse at 10 a. m. Monday. The jury will then go to the reformatory to conduct its sessions under the direction of Hurley.

It developed today that Richland county may have to stand the cost of the investigation, since county residents will serve on the jury and the county court will be in charge of preparations for the probe, Judge Huston said.

'Under the attorney general's ruling as outlined to me by Mr. Hurley, each county in which a special jury is called must bear the cost of the investigations," the judge explained.

$450 a Week Is Estimate.

He estimated the probable cost to the county for impaneling the jury, jurors' fees, and providing a bailiff and stenographers at $450 a week. Witness fees and mileage for witnesses, who will be called by the attorney general's office, are not included in the estimate but the cost, too, will be included in the county's expense, Judge Huston added.

County officials were unable to estimate today how many witnesses will be called to testify before the jury.

Judge Huston indicated, however, that Sheriff E. P. Long would be asked by Hurley to subpoena witnesses after the manner followed in calling county grand jury witnesses.

Twenty-five names — 10 more than will be required for the jury —were drawn at the courthouse yesterday at the suggestion of

New Serial, 'The Piper's Tune,' to Begin Tomorrow

From a rambling ranch house on the sweeping hills of the souhtwest, comes the heroine of Joseph McCord's latest newspaper serial, "The Piper's Tune," which begins in The News-Journal Friday.

This story by the author of the popular serials "Joan's Return," "One Way Street," and "Dotted Line Honeymoon," brings its heroine from the comaraderie of hard riding cow hands to the easy friendship of hard drinking, hard gambling playboys of Park avenue.

When Caradad Vardell—named "Dad" by the cow hands—sold her big ranch with it oil gushers and headed toward New York, she thought of the one man she knew in the big metropolis, Terry Cantine. Terry was a childhood friend, who had gone to New York years before.

If Terry was delighted to see an old friend, he was also dismayed at the thought of beauing around the tomboy he remembered. He got his first shock when he suggested that she stay at the Y. W. C. A., and she asked for a suite in the most expensive hotel in the city.

Straight from the range Dad went to the crowded stuffy cocktail parties to which Terry escorted her, and her reaction to the change and her revised estimate of men make an interesting story.

COUNTY'S 1938 GENERAL FUND HIKED $26,500

Total Appropriation Reduced $18,700 However By Drop In Bond Retirement.

Richland county commissioners today approved an appropriation measure providing $663,198 for operation of the county government in 1938, a reduction of $18,764 from the 1937 figure.

Despite the cut, which was due to a $3,000 drop in bond retirement needs, the county will have $26,506 more in its general fund in 1938. Total general fund appropriations this year are $331,000 as compared with $304,494 last year

With most of the county offices set to operate on virtually the same amounts they received last year, the general fund increase will provide for special services not included in the 1937 appropriation.

$15,000 for Needy Children.

More than half the increase is accounted for in a $15,000 appropriation for aid to dependent children and the blind.

A surplus fund, built up from federal and state allocations, provided for the care of dependents last year, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said, but with the fund exhausted, the county is forced to appropriate from its own general fund

Other increases will provide $2,000 for the salary and traveling expenses of a special nurse for tuberculosis patients; $2 000 for inspection of county offices by state examiners; $2,250 for the county's benefit payment to the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district; $5,500 for payments on a $30,000 debt owed the state, and $1,000 for placing the new certificate of automobile title law in operation in the county

In addition, an $800 increase was granted the county juvenile department for extra clerk hire. County commissioners had been asked to appropriate funds for the employment of two more juvenile

HELD IN THEFT OF TONS OF WIRE

Three Accused Of Stealing 25 Miles of Copper Line From Railroad Circuit.

Three suspects were held in jail here today in connection with the theft of nearly 25 miles of copper wire, cut from Pennsylvania railroad telegraph circuits between Loudonville and Brinkhaven, 20 miles southeast of Mansfield in Knox county.

The three, between the ages of 22 and 25, have confessed, according to detectives, that they staged several nightly raids in the vicinity, cutting down nearly 25 miles of copper wire—estimated at about two tons—which was disposed of at a local junk yard.

The raids were made on four different occasions, during the latter part of November and early December, police said. The heavy copped wire was cut off close to the insulators from the ground with the use of a pair of pruning shears, which had been sold only recently to a downtown second hand store, according to detectives.

The loot was hauled to Mansfield, over back roads in the night, in a car of one of the youths and disposed the following day for junk.

They first denied any knowledge of the theft, but later confessed.

The arrests were made at a North Main street address by Detectives Harry Copper and Oscar Krupp and two detectives of the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday afternoon.

Pennsylvania railroad authorities said that grand larceny charges would be filed in Mt. Vernon today and the men would be taken there to face the charges

Town Hall Hears of Need To 'Sell' Water Plan to City

Seeks to Put Across True Picture of Necessity for Expansion Program as It Resumes Civic 'Clinics.'

The need of concerted drive to "sell" to the city itself a plan for further expansion of the Mansfield water distribution system—and the necessity for formulating a program to promote expansion was outlined last night as the Town Hall "civic clinics" were resumed at the Chamber of Commerce.

Judge C H Huston, president of the chamber, opened the discussion with an explanation of what Town Hall meetings were and invited those present to take part.

"Town Hall is here to be of a constructive help to city council and officials, not destructive," Huston said.

Reviews Steps To Date.

C L. VanDerau, chairman of the chamber's water development committee then reviewed briefly the steps taken by the city to provide Mansfield with increased water facilities in future years and the need for a comprehensive plan of distribution in the water system.

Horatio Alger 'Rags to Riches' Books Dad Used to Read All But Forgotten

106th Birthday of Author Finds Stories Are No Longer Available.

By JANE WILLIAMS

Small American boys of the present generation have all but forgotten Horatio Alger, American writer of "rags to riches" fiction, the 106th anniversary of whose birth occurs today.

A canvass of Mansfield book stores and the Public library fails to reveal a single volume by the writer whose juvenile stories were read by millions of American boys in the last half of the 19th century.

There are infrequent calls for the Alger books from boys whose only knowledge of them comes from what their fathers have told them about what THEY read when they were boys.

Miss Lois MacKellar, librarian at the Mansfield Public library, says that Alger books are not found in public libraries these days, except possibly in a small town collection

"A higher standard of reading is set for children of today, and the books that thrilled youngsters of a half century ago aren't considered good juvenile literature today," she said. "The Alger books were never true to life, they didn't even reflect life of the times in which they were written. Any boy today would know that an Alger hero hadn't one chance in a million of being real "

The heroes of Alger's imagination were always poor but honest, overcoming every hazard of life by the virtues of

SHARKS INFEST WATERS

Clothing, Engineering Log, Papers Found In Water Tell Story Of Blast.

PAGO PAGO, Samoa— (AP) — Clear indication that the giant Samoan clipper and her crew of seven were destroyed in a fire and explosion was brought to Pago Pago today by the minesweeper Avocet.

The naval craft returned to port with charred fragments of the flying boat after an all-day search of the oil slick 12 miles off Pago Pago where the all-metal transpacific plane crashed in flames Tuesday.

Every item recovered showed signs of an internal explosion. All were charred, burned and covered with aluminum powder.

All of Crew Dead.

Because of the condition of the fragments, no hope was held of recovering from the shark infested waters the bodies of Capt Edwin C. Musick, 43-year-old Pan American Airways ace, and his crew of six The clipper carried no passengers

The plane caught fire while dumping excess gasoline preparatory to landing at Pago Pago to repair a broken oil line after starting out on a flight for Auckland, N. Z. It crashed in a thousand fathoms of water.

Wreckage found by the Avocet included·

A coat belonging to Radio Officer T. J. Findley, 29, of Alameda, Calif. It showed evidence of holes blown through it. A wing emblem was the identifying mark on the coat.

Trousers belonging to J. A. Brooks, 38, of Honolulu, assistant engineering officer. It was identified by a tie clasp in the pocket. The clasp was bent.

Pages of the engineering log and other papers

Bits of navigators' charts.

Many small wood fragments from the inside of the plane.

150,000 TO BE AT WORK SOON

Survey Shows Six To Eight Weeks Will Cut Rolls Of Unemployed In U. S.

NEW YORK —(U.P)— Approximately 150,000 jobless men will find employment in the next six to eight weeks, and 10 of the 12 federal reserve districts expect marked improvement in the employment before April, a nationwide survey of unemployment by the United Press indicated today.

The survey co-ordinated analyses of employment conditions in all 12 federal reserve districts and included special reports from "key" industrial centers.

Its findings were:

1. That the increase in unemployment which started last October began leveling off Jan. 1.
2. That approximately 100,000 men, not included in prospects for the next month and a half, already have returned to work this month, and that 50,000 more are expected to resume their jobs before the end of this month.
3. That 10 of the 12 districts anticipate an improvement in employment before April.
4. That a substantial percentage of the employes in heavy manufacturing lines are on a part-time basis.
5. That many large organizations have revived the depression "spread the work" idea to provide employment for as many workers as possible.
6. That there has been little pay cutting and that payrolls have declined generally in proportion to cuts in employment and hours.
7. That some southern districts

STATE FINANCE HEAD ORDERED UNDER ARREST

Action By 'Graft' Probers Forces Showdown In Feud With Gov. Davey.

HEARING STARTS TODAY

Allison Silent On Plans To Battle Charges; Says He's 'Guinea Pig' For Test.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS —(U.P)—Finance Director M. Ray Allison, under citation on charges of contempt of the senate, was advised today by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy to surrender vouchers demanded by the senate graft investigating committee.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — An order from the senate's graft-hunting committee for the arrest of State Finance Director M. Ray Allison on a charge of contempt brought to a climax today the long battle between Gov. Martin L. Davey and his "hatchet men" foes in the senate.

The committee acted when Allison, challenging its legality, refused to produce six vouchers issued for investigation expenses, on which payment has been held up in the finance director's office.

The inquiry body ordered Allison brought before the bar of the senate for trial on the charge (at 2:30 p. m., today).

Silent on Plans.

As an assistant sergeant-at-arms sought to serve the warrant on the finance director, Allison and his advisers declined to say what steps would be taken to challenge the committee's action.

Administration supporters said Allison could seek a writ of habeas corpus, which would bring the test before a court.

An administration legal adviser, on the other hand, declared the committee had no authority to order Allison's arrest. He said only the senate could do this, and that such action without the senate's authority might make the arresting officer liable for false arrest.

Members of the legislature differed on the question of what penalty the senate would impose for contempt. Some thought the penalty was a fine of $10 to $1,000. Others said the senate could impose any penalty it wished, including imprisonment.

Before questioning the committee's authority and jurisdiction, Allison told the group that he had asked the attorney general's office for a ruling and added "I am not in wilful contempt."

Outside the hearing room, the finance director described himself as "a guinea pig" in the test.

OK'S MONOPOLY

3-Judge U. S. Court Upholds Ohio Liquor System.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A three-judge federal court upheld today the constitutionality of the Ohio liquor monopoly system and its right to regulate the sale and distribution of all liquor within the state.

The case involved the suit of the Walding, Kinnan and Marvin company, Toledo wholesale druggists, who contended that the monopoly of retail liquor business in Ohio was unconstitutional because it deprived them of property rights and business.

The firm sought the right to sell liquor for medicinal purposes as it did before the state liquor law became operative.

Judges upholding the contention of the state that the liquor law was constitutional were Circuit Judge Florence Allen and District Judges Mell G. Underwood and Robert Nevin.

TAKE WEIGHT OFF TIRED FEET

Lose Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

If your feet and ankles feel tired and ache all over—because you are carrying too much fat—do something about it. Try the treatment that has helped millions to reduce excess weight.

There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right.

All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace.

Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out in this way.

Marmola Prescription Tablets contain the same element prescribed by most doctors in treating their fat patients So don't waste your time or money striving to reduce with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking Don't wait—get a box of Marmola today from your druggist.

Possibly you have noticed the following fashion points That lingerie touches as accents on black dresses are in again, according to mid-season collections

Pleats and tucks are used in a big way in the new collections, and sunburst pleats are important, especially for daytime.

Many dresses have pleats stitched to a low hipline, then allowed their freedom There are many different versions of the pleated dress.

Prints are being used to trim solid color dresses, as in sleeves of the print on dress or jacket Or the print may be used in the form of ruches. However it is used, it gives a freshness to the dress.

Water Stains.

PUT OIL IN FIRST

A bath oil that should be dropped into the tub before the water is drawn is the offering of one famed perfumer Its name, "Abano," means "bath" in Russian Dropping a few drops of the oil in the tub first allows the pressure of the water to diffuse the particles and release the perfume Hang two or three frocks on the shower rack before the bath is taken so that the oil's perfume may perfume them, too, the manufacturers suggest.

Necklaces have arrived with a bang this season. Women are not wearing one necklace with a costume—but several, in gold plate, silver or twisted strands of pearls In precious jewelry there are pendants of precious stones on delicate platinum and diamond chains, or chokers that circle the base of the throat.

"BOMBAY" DISCUSSED AT SAPPHO MEETING

Mrs. Peterson Speaks on "Gateway to India"; Mrs. Hammer, Mrs. Middleton, Mrs. Renwick, Mrs. Eckert Participate.

BOMBAY—GATEWAY TO INDIA" was the title of the paper presented by Mrs. H. W. Peterson yesterday at the regular meeting of the Sappho club. The speaker traced some of the history and customs of the city which is located on the tip of an island which was given as a dowry to the king of England.

"Bombay is a city of color, contrast, and commerce," Mrs. Peterson said It is possible to see as many as 50 different head-dresses and costumes at one time in Bombay.

The city is a contrast of modern life and customs which are centuries old. On one hand the visitor may find the magnificent homes of a modern European or American city and on the other one sees the filth, plague and squalor of ancient times.

Public buildings are among the most stately and richest, but they encompass nearly every known type of architecture. Bombay is the center of the textile industry and it is the greatest export and import center in that part of the world.

According to Mrs. Peterson the places in Bombay to find the real India are among the peasants or the factory workers.

Mrs. R. J. Hammer presented the current news notes and musical selections were given by Mrs. Ambrose Middleton, Mrs. W. E. Renwick, and Mrs. Dean Eckert.

From Lawrence Hope's Oriental Suite Mrs. Middleton sang "Less Than the Dust" and "'Till I Wake" The two piano selections offered by Mrs. Renwick and Mrs. Eckert were "Song of India" by Rimiski-Korsakov and "Song from East" by Cyrl Scott.

Mrs. Eckert and Mrs. Glenn G. Rohleder were hostesses for the meeting. The next meeting will be at the Women's Club Jan. 26 with Mrs J. M. Johnston and Mrs. L. J. Schubert as hostesses Those on the program which will deal with Sydney, Australia, include Mrs. Paul Williams, Mrs. J. L. Stevens, Mrs. H H. Clingan, Mrs. A. C. Butterfield, and Mrs. J H. Todd.

VAST BENEFITS TRACED TO U. S. WEATHER DATA

Forecasting System Best In History, Annual Report of Bureau Declares.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The United States has developed the most advanced weather forecasting system in history, Dr. W. R. Gregg, chief of the weather bureau, disclosed today.

The weather bureau this year has saved many lives and hundreds of millions worth of property through advance warnings of floods, freezes and storms, Dr. Gregg said in a report to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Most notable of the advances made in weather forecasting during the past year was made, Dr. Gregg said, in weather-reporting for airway services. The bureau added 120 airway reporting stations, bringing the total to 782 stations.

The public, he said, hears much of the few airplanes that crash, but nothing of the hundreds of crashes which probably were averted through advance warning of unfavorable weather conditions. A new airway general supervising and forecast center was established at Arlington, Va., during the year.

Bahama Stations Set Up.

Hurricane-warning service of the bureau was strengthened by establishment of an improved reporting system in the Bahamas. Twenty stations on the islands now supply daily information of vital importance in forecasting the approach of hurricanes toward the mainland.

"The year afforded some forceful and dramatic examples of the important, at times tragic, part that unfavorable weather plays in human affairs and of the highly constructive role that an efficiently organized weather service can assume in mitigating the effects of such weather," Dr. Gregg said.

The weather bureau was of "inestimatible value," Gregg said, "in day-to-day reports of the 1936 drouth and the floods of last spring. Economic losses from the floods were enormous, he said, but would have been infinitely greater but for the timely warnings of the bureau.

Advance news of high river crests kept down the death toll and economic losses, he said. They enabled the American Red Cross and government agencies to plan and work more efficiently in relieving suffering and in effecting rescues, he said.

Marie Sarkipato Knows Her Woods Lore

ELY, Minn., Marie Sarkipato can paddle her own canoe. She asks no concessions from hunters and fishermen she guides in the northern Minnesota wilderness. The comely, 18-year-old blonde charges a full guide's rate of $8 a day and wants to earn it.

Marie spurns make-up; says outdoor exercise keeps her trim. Her patrons agree.

When she was 12 she swam two and three-quarters miles across Lake Shagawa, here, where her father runs a boathouse. She started guiding fishing parties at 13. Her savings are putting her through Ely Junior college, where she is a freshman.

Ohio Gets $3,843,585 For Aid Aid to State's Aged.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The United States social security board notified state division heads that grants totalling $3,843,585 had been approved for Ohio as the government's share in financing aid to the aged and public assistance programs for the fiscal quarter ending March 31.

Henry J. Berrodin, state division of aid for the aged chief, said the board had allocated $3,348,257 for financing its 50 per cent of the program. The state provides the remaining 50 per cent.

Dependent children will receive $387,564 from the federal government, said Henry J. Robison, public assistance division chief, and the remaining two-thirds will be provided equally by state and county governments.

Ironton Republicans File Plea In Ballot-Tampering.

IRONTON —(AP)— A plea for dismissal of an indictment charging four prominent Republicans with ballot-tampering was before the common pleas court today.

The four, County Auditor Pearl A. Pratt, Elizabeth Griffith, former relief director, Wade Webb, court bailiff, and William Dickens, a lumber dealer, charged that a member of the grand jury which indicted them last spring was not a resident of Lawrence county.

Their move came as the state prepared to ask the court to set a date for re-trial of the four. A jury trying them last July deadlocked and was dismissed.

APPEALS COURT BARS ATTORNEY

Ex-State Senator Disbarred After Conviction In Trust Fund Forgery.

FRANKFORT, Ky—(AP)— John T. Murphy of Covington, former state senator, has been disbarred from the practice of law by the court of appeals.

The court held Murphy "lacking in the fundamentals of integrity" necessary for a member of the legal profession.

The court convicted Murphy of misuse of trust funds left to Marie Therese Corby, an infant, by her Detroit capitalist father. Specifically, Murphy was accused of having forged the name of the child's mother, Mrs. Madeline Corby Morgan Webber, of Rocky River Ohio, to obtain approximately $50,000 from the Lincoln National bank of Cincinnati, depository for the trust funds.

Murphy, who for several years has fought extradition to Cincinnati to face an indictment growing out of his handling of the funds, represented Mrs Webber in litigation involving the child's claim to to the estate.

Former Governor Ruby Laffoon refused to extradite Murphy, but on June 20 1936 Gov A B Chandler signed the extradition papers

Butler, Ontario Tangle

Tussle to Have Important Bearing on Outcome Of County Race.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

FOLLOWERS of action along the county basketball front are quite uncertain about the outcome of the championship race.

This season's race has developed into the hottest piece of battling in years, and there is no telling which team will be up there on top when the curtain is rung down.

Butler appears to be one of the better bets, but the Bulldogs have a little argument to settle with Ontario Friday night before the odds can be taken seriously.

The Warriors and Bulldogs stage their little setto on the Butler court, and the result will have a definite bearing on the championship.

Coach M. L. Stearns has assembled a crafty bunch of cagers at Butler, according to the records, and the team that can beat the Bulldogs will undoubtedly go on to annex the title now being defended by Ontario.

Ontario, which has lost only one game, is still very much in the race, and it can tie Butler for the league lead by winning Friday night. The Warriors only setback was administered by Madison, which, with Lucas, must be considered a contender.

Madison has not functioned with any degree of consistency, but remains a threat, nevertheless. Lucas, handicapped by the lack of a home floor, deserves recognition for the fine showing it has been making on strange courts.

Lexington, Bellville and Union are not accorded much of a chance to figure in the race, although the Minutemen show possibilities.

In addition to the Butler-Ontario game, the Friday night bill includes Madison's invasion of Lexington and a tilt between Union and Bellville in the latter city.

Lucas is not scheduled for action Friday, but goes to Ontario Saturday to offer Coach Orv Kibler's men their second tough test in as many nights

Walter Ward, who has made many appearances on the Mansfield alleys with Cleveland teams, is having another big year in bowling. Ward rolled three perfect games over the week-end, one coming on Friday, another on Saturday and the third on Sunday.

THE U. S. G. A. is backing down on its rigid stymie rule, it now appears

The provision to allow players to lift balls within six inches of each other and within six inches of the hole is merely a forerunner to abolishment of the stymie. It has been called unfair so many times that unfair is the natural pre-fixing adjective.

The general contention is that the stymie is one of the most interesting phases of golf play, that abolishing it doesn't make the game any fairer, but a little easier, that the excitement from one stymie relieves many a dull match.

That one man deliberately lays another a stymie has been claimed numerous times, but the fact remains that it's just as easy to putt for the hole as it is for the other fellow's line. That part, however, is open to argument. The interesting nature of the stymie play isn't.

SIX of the members of the Tiffin club of the Ohio State league will move up, Charley La Crone, the Mudhens' business manager, announces

While Harry Walker looked like the best ball player in the Tiffin lineup last summer, he has not been advanced as high as Tom Tighe, an ordinary receiver, who goes to Toledo

Walker, along with Bill Ebranyi and Emil Verban, to the Evangeline league Gibson Williams has been shifted to the East Texas circuit.

Union Scores First Victory

Bowser Rolls Up 21 Points In 48-24 Win.

Union township high school courtiers registered their first victory of the season on the home hardwood last night as they raced unmolested over Adario, 48 to 24.

Although handicapped by height, the Unionites had their eyes on the bucket, and they made good 38 per cent of their shots as they toppled the Twin-Valley league foe in the non-league tussle.

Coach Merle Baker's athletes never trailed after obtaining an 8 to 7 lead in the initial period. They held a 22 to 13 advantage at the half, and a 29 to 18 lead going into the final period.

Bowser, a guard, was the offensive star of the game, contributing eight baskets and five free throws for a total of 21 points Tolles accounted for 11 Krichbaum led the visitors with nine

Becker Signed For Stratton

Headline Grapple Show In Armory Monday.

Feeling keenly the loss of prestige in his defeat at the hands of Walter Stratton three week ago, George Becker, young German bomber has asked the Quality club for a return match with the Leetonia farmer.

"Our match three weeks ago didn't begin to show which was the better wrestler" stated Becker. It will be recalled that Stratton scored a somewhat fluky victory over George after each had taken a fall

Matchmaker Tim Nolan has granted Becker's request and has secured the signature of Stratton on a Quality club contract. This bout will top a program of three events slated for decision in the Armory Monday night

KATHERINE SAYS SHE'LL STAY IN THE SWIM

KATHERINE RAWLS, diving, free style and breast-stroke swimming star, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is the most versatile woman swimmer in the world. She has held records and championships galore. She is one of four sisters, all of them swimming champions. When her engagement was announced, the public wondered what would happen to her career. Katherine replied she would go on swimming. Here are highlights of what, regardless of her future activities, will remain one of the bright careers of the sport.

YOUNG STAR

Reporters in 1931 had trouble spelling the name of "Kathryn" Rawls, who, at 14, was one of the youngest entrants in the women's national A. A. U. championship. Miss Rawls was already junior diving champion Many another title lay ahead of her.

OLYMPIAN

Slight of build, Katherine—or "Kitty" —always has photographed well — something she has in common with Eleanor Holm Jarrett, another Olympic swimmer. Here she is (left) in a 1936 Olympic picture with Olive McKean of Seattle.

VETERAN STAR

In 1937 she retained her national indoor breaststroke title at Chicago. At San Francisco, where this picture was made, she won the national A. A. U. titles in the 300-meter medley, the 440-yard, 880-yard and one-mile freestyle.

COLLEGE GIRL

Last autumn Katherine entered Florida State college for Women. Majoring in journalism, she wrote her first "signed" story for The A. P. Feature Service. She complained her school work was hard, and told of the delights of food packages from home

FIANCEE

On November 21, 1937, the engagement of Miss Rawls to William W. Starr, Daytona Beach, Fla., advertising man, was announced Miss Rawls did not set a date for her marriage. She didn't say what effect her tough college course had on her decision.

Simpson Tops Madison Club

Rose Leads Bulldogs to 14 to 13 Victory.

Led by Rose, who caged nine points, the Simpson junior high school court team registered a 14 to 13 victory over the Madison reserves in the Madison gym yesterday.

The game was a nip-and-tuck affair, and the outcome was doubtful until the final gun.

The first period ended with the score tied, 4-all but the Bulldogs jumped into the lead in the next frame to hold a 11 to 8 advantage at intermission Madison again knotted the count in the third period 12-all. Only three points were tallied in the final period

HITS HOCKEY 'ABUSES'

Olympic Committee Asks Colleges To "Purge" Game.

NEW YORK —(UP)— Unless amateur hockey "abuses" are remedied in this country, the United States is not likely to be represented by a hockey team in the 1940 Olympic games. The American Olympic association refuse to appoint a committee for the ice sport while in session last week, and A. A. U. Secretary Frederick W. Rubien announced yesterday that President Avery Brundage had called on every college in the country and the A. A. U. "to purge American amateur hockey." Rubien said he referred specifically to "professionals masquerading as amateurs."

Venturi's Purse Held Up After Kayo by Armstrong

12,000 See Italian Give His Version of Dying Swan, Draws Suspension.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(P)—Enrico Venturi, the Italian fistic virtuoso, who folded like a dollar accordion against Henry Armstrong last evening, had enough worries on his mind today to occupy a dozen people.

Enrico's share of the purse was held up pending an investigation of why he nestled against the canvas and permitted himself to be counted out toward the last of the sixth round, when he obviously was able to remain on his pins.

Future Very Dark.

Further, he was under a month's suspension in New York state because he had weighed in for the bout three pounds over the stipulated limit of 135 pounds. Things, in fact, looked very dark for Venturi's fistic future.

His plight was matched only by the 12,000 fans who paid their way into the Garden to see him fight Armstrong, and who wound up watching the Italian give his own version of the dying swan. They, the customers, really took a lacing.

Venturi, after having tried vainly for five and a fraction rounds to stay clear of Armstrong's homicidal swings, suddenly notified Referee Arthur Donovan that he had been fouled. Donovan looked appropriately blank, though some of the ringsiders had noted that Armstrong was digging in slightly below the belt.

When Donovan declined to do anything about it, Venturi registered anger and slowly, like a circus elephant, got down on the floor and stretched out. Donovan got in touch with the timekeeper and counted ten. Venturi got to his feet, fast, and started arguing with the fervor of a backwoods debating society, but Donovan was busy tilting Armstrong's hand.

21st for Armstrong.

The knockout, such as it was, constituted the 21st in a row for Armstrong, who looked as mystified as anybody else when Venturi bowed out. The Italian had made himself a very good record in a year of fighting on this side, and a surprising amount of money had been bet on him. He was reputed to be tough, but he clearly didn't relish what the dusky destroyer put out.

The cagers of Mansfield high school returned to the practice court yesterday for a light workout in preparation for their second game of the week with Shelby on the Tyger hardwood Saturday night.

Coach Russ Murphy's Tygers came out of their hard tussle with Ashland in good shape, and the mentor was well satisfied with their play, although he admitted his club did not handle the ball as speedily as in other games.

The game Saturday night will mark the second game with Shelbys Whippets, whom the Tygers trimmed on the Bordertown court in December.

STOCK EXPERTS ENCOURAGED BY BUILDING JUMP

Dun & Bradstreet Report Shows Increase In Issuance Of Permits.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Stocks struggled for a rally in today's market, but buying support was feeble.

While selling tended to dry up, and opening losses running to a point or so were reduced near the second hour, most leaders still were slightly in arrears. The ticker tape frequently was motionless.

Another sharp drop in the French franc, in terms of the dollar and sterling, reflected continuance of disturbed political conditions in the republic.

Bonds and commodities were a bit uneven.

Market analysas found some encouragement in the figures of Dun & Bradstreet disclosing December building permits for the country as a whole jumped 70.7 per cent over the corresponding 1936 month and were 42.1 per cent ahead of November.

Not so cheering was the bank clearings total for the week ended yesterday. This barometer showed a drop of 17.4 per cent from the comparable 1937 period and was substantially down from the preceding week.

Survey Shows Six To Eight Weeks Will Cut Rolls Of Unemployed In U. S.

have been affected to a much smaller extent by the business slump than have most other areas, particularly those heavily industralized.

Actual figures of total unemployment for all districts were not available, but sufficient material came from authentic sources to provide an accurate "fever-chart" of employment conditions in the various sections and the nation as a whole.

Reports from the different regions when averaged on a percentage basis with the unemployment rolls of the federal government, indicated that approximately 1,500,000 persons lost their jobs in the last two and a half months of 1937, while about the same number had their hours of employment reduced.

BOSTON WOOL

BOSTON—(AP)—(U. S. Dept of Agr.)—Demand continued very quiet on the Boston wool market yesterday.

The recent weakness of prices in Australia and New Zealand has encouraged buyers to make low bids on domestic wools. Boston houses generally, however, are not considering the low offers. An occasional buyer that needed wool at once was paying prices about in line with the sales closed last week. The volume of wool moved was very small.

25 DRAWN FOR PAROLE JURY

16 Of Group To Be Impaneled Monday When Inquiry Opens At Reformatory.

Hurley who said some of the prospective jurors may be ruled ineligible to serve. Judge Huston will question the persons listed before impaneling the jury Monday.

With Hurley at the drawing yesterday were Atty. Paul Hergenroeder, representing Atty. General Herbert S. Duffy's office, and John Kilbane, state parole investigator. The three conferred with Judge Huston and Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott concerning reports of alleged "buying" of paroles from the reformatory before returning to Columbus late in the afternoon.

Twelve of the 25 prospective jurors named yesterday are residents of Mansfield, while the others represent almost every section of the county. They are:

List of Prospective Jurors.

Otis Sowash, 539 West Fourth street; Jay Lime. Sandusky township; Ida M. Spencer, 111 Sturges avenue, Isaac Bricker, Jackson township; William F Dick. Plymouth township, Charles Beelman, 356 Davis road; Earl E Hudson, 181 Western avenue, William Mohn, Bloominggrove township; Henrietta Hamer, 62 Bartley avenue, Martin Matuch, Monroe township; George Mentzer, Troy township, Lee Shaffer, Washington township; George Kirsch, Madison township, Amy U. Pecht, 114 West First street; Florence Gifford, 117 Park avenue west; Glenn Gatton, Jefferson township; Boyd L Young, 128 Glenwood boulevard; W. O. Wiles, Monroe township; Emilia Davis, 121 Rowland avenue; Grace Lee Burns, 189 West Second street; Selby Cole, Shelby; L. V. Snyder, Lucas; Peter A. Lenox, 492 West Fourth street; Wes Keiffer, Washington township, and Edith Funk, 353 South Main street.

While plans went ahead for the shifting of the investigation from Franklin county to Mansfield, the report returned yesterday by the special Franklin county grand jury created a stir at Columbus.

Board Head Replies.

Answering the jury, which branded him as temperamentally unfit to serve on the parole board, Judge Harrison W. Jewell, chairman of the board, said he would let his work as common pleas judge and on the parole board speak for itself. He indicated he might give a more extensive reply later.

Gov. Davey, who recently named Judge Jewell to the board, defended his appointment, saying that "It is my judgment that Judge Jewell is one of the best men in the entire state for that extremely important position"

The governor added that he agreed with Judge Jewell when he told the special grand jury that the major purpose of the parole system is to protect society rather than reform the criminal.

Jewell pointed out that the wo state parole board investigators whose dismissal was recommended by the grand jury are under civil service and can be removed only when charges are filed against them. United Press dispatches reported him as saying that Atty. General Duffy and the jury will have to furnish information on which the recommendation was based before action can be taken against the two investigators, W. E Grenell of Springfield and F. J Griffith of Canton

The jury's recommendation for a new state prison to alleviate crowded conditions at the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus was considered by Gov. Davey who said funds for the prison probably could come from an anticipated general fund surplus at the end of 1938

HEARS WATER PROGRAM NEEDS

Town Hall Told Of Necessity To 'Sell' Expansion Plan To City First.

officials for the progress they had made in developing the supply in the Maxwell field, and for the drafting of an expansion plan that was recently approved by the state board of health.

"Our problem is two fold," VanDerau told the group. "First we must ascertain the need of supply and distribution, and then face the problem of how it should be done."

He asserted that the need of supply and distribution had already been determined and that the problem now revolved around the question of financing

He pointed out though that the question of financing the water program was not under consideration at the present, "until the city of Mansfield is sold on the need."

"We of this group are sold on the need, but there are thousands of others in the city who are not, and it is our job to get the true picture across to them before we can even talk about financing"

VanDerau explained that the entire water system, designed for a city of 20,000 population, was obsolete for the present size of the city and its industries.

With industry now using 650,000 gallons more daily than the domestic consumption, he said the need was for further development of the supply which would be ample to meet consumption needs in 30 years hence

Herbert R Slough, chairman of the chamber's fire prevention committee, pointed out the need for a better water supply from the standpoint of fire insurance

Cites High Fire Insurance.

"Our fire insurance rates here in the mercantile district are not applicable to a city of this size and they rank with classifications of cities the size of Cleveland," he said.

He stated that the property owners were paying 15 to 20 per cent more than they should because of the antiquated water system and in dollars and cents were losing annually about $50,000

"This alone should be a major point in selling the need of water system improvements to the city," he said.

Mayor Claude M Hunter said that his co-operation and the cooperation of city council could be expected in solving the question of better distribution and development of the supply.

James F Carrigan former service-safety director, said that he favored the program but raised the question of whether the people of Mansfield would get behind the program until other projects were inspected

Brings Up Sewage Problem

He pointed out that the $350,000 sewage disposal plant in which he said he was interested, was reported to be not operating satisfactorily

"I have been led to believe that there are deficiencies in the equipment at the plant that makes it necessary to by-pass raw sewage into the creek," he said

He stated that he was not trying to embarrass the present administration but suggested that the Chamber of Commerce and the administration appoint a committee to investigate the situation before final payment is made to the contractors on Feb. 6.

"I believe if any of us were to go down to the plant right now" he said, "we would find that the plant was not operating and that raw sewage is being by-passed into the creek the one thing that the state health department has condemned"

He contended that if this condition were true that it might have its effects on the spending of public funds for the purpose of developing the water system

Admits Difficulties.

Paul Sotherland, superintendent of the sewage plant, admitted today, that he had been having difficulties with equipment at the plant and that he had notified the new Service-Safety Director Tracy C Styert of one of the conditions co[illegible]ning the clogging of some of the valves.

Styert, he said, had written to the contracting firm seeking to have the condition remedied

While this was one of the more acute conditions, Sotherland said other deficiencies in equipment hindered 100 per cent efficiency in operation of the plant

Lawmakers Seek Compromise In Deadlock On Needy Aid.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — President Pro-Tem Keith Lawrence of the Ohio senate and three spokesmen of the house of representatives sought today to loosen a jam delaying enactment of a $4,000,000 relief bill.

The measure, making available additional funds for 1938 through the utility excise, admissions and beer taxes, was passed by the house, and the senate added amendments which the house refused to accept.

Although the senate insisted on its amendments and asked appointment of a joint conference committee to settle the differences, Lieut. Gov. Paul P. Yoder indicated the senate would refuse to negotiate toward a compromise unless the house made acceptable concessions.

Agreement on these concessions was the object of today's conference.

FINDS PROCESS TO MAKE PAPER OF FARM WASTE

Pittsburgh Scientist Uses Straw; Farmers, Laborers, Newspapers Would Benefit.

PITTSBURGH —(U.P.)— Discovery of a process for baking paper and "synthetic cotton" from straw and other waste farm materials, was announced here by Dr. F. W. Hochstetter, Pittsburgh scientist.

Working on the secret process for 10 years, Dr. Hochstetter said he can take a bundle of straw and convert it into tough, white paper pulp.

The new process, which may revolutionize the paper-making industry, according to the scientist, can utilize almost anything composed of strong fibers. Cornstalks, shrubs, weeds, marsh grass, goldenrod, mountain grass and broom fibers are among the prospective materials, he said.

He said paper is now being made of straw but heretofore no method has been developed for dissolving or eliminating the shiny and waterproof outside covering of the straw, resulting in a paper, coarse and speckled with impurities.

Develops New Coating.

Dr. Hochstetter said he has developed a new coating material for his new paper pulp. With such a coating, according to the inventor, newspapers can be produced which will be easier to read, less likely to tear and resistant to yellowing with age.

Dr. Hochstetter and his sponsors, Michael Benedum and Joe C. Trees, Pittsburgh oil operators, will concentrate first on using the newly discovered method for making newsprint. For the most part, according to the scientist, they will license existing paper manufacturers to use the process.

"Farmers," Dr. Hochstetter said, would be the first to benefit. Getting from $2 to $5 a ton for materials they throw away, their average yearly incomes could be increased from $1,000 to $5,000 a year.

"Labor would be the second to benefit, with thousands of new jobs created. Publishers would be the third group to benefit, for obvious reasons."

Held In Puerto Rico Plot

Julio Pinto Gandia (left), lawyer and president of the Nationalist party of Puerto Rico, was sentenced, with seven others, to five years in the Atlanta penitentiary for the attempt to assassinate United States District Judge Robert A. Book of the Week

"Strange Week-end," by Mary Borden (Harpers; $2.50).

MARY BORDEN'S "Strange Week-End" is for us the novel of the week because of the incredible work it must have been to write it all backward. The book makes an undeniable effect; this reader went straight through it. But the progress of the story reminded one of a crab which gets from point "A" to point "B" on the beach all right, but looks as if it were going the other way the entire time!

Miss Borden is of course an American, married to a British general. She is every bit as British as her husband, if not a little more so. She even permits some of her characters to speak of "the American" in an unnecessarily slighting way. But she has written for ages and it is difficult to see why she tells her story in such phrases as "Mum's bedroom was always exciting, James thought"; "He'd told her she needn't worry, and she wasn't going to"; "Sarah had laid a careless, friendly arm across Rose Daventry's shoulders—"

This persistent pushing of things into the past, this determination to strain everything through someone's else mind makes the book an extraordinary exercise in prose technique and rather hard going. But it won't stop the persistent reader, because Miss Borden's story of Jock Barnaby and his wife Sarah, and their wrecked lives, all concentrated within the bounds of a week-end, has an unusually dramatic quality for all its familiarity.

It is one of those tight little stories which concerns a relatively small group of people and a question of honor. The villain of the piece is Sarah's brother Greville. He is ruined and he has ruined Sarah and undermined that lovely old estate, Christian's Vallance (rather like the much publicized Sackville-West place). But Greville can be saved, and Sarah too, if Under-Secretary Jock will drop a hint of the government's course in a certain oil deal. Obviously this "plot" imposed no great creative strain, since it has been written dozens of times before. But Miss Borden, in her curious way has made it seem new again.—J. S.

Municipal court receipts totaling $1,478.88 for December were $60 above revenue of the previous month, according to a monthly report of collections prepared by Miss Isabel Gerstmeyer, deputy clerk.

From the total receipts, the city's general fund will be increased by $1,319.68 while $159.20 will be distributed to the state, county and law library. CHAPTER XXX

The cab driver paid, Karen stood a moment on the sidewalk before the apartment house where Philip lived. She was shaking terribly. One moment she was on heights, thinking, "He'll tell me he loves me and take me in his arms and kiss me. I've wanted him to kiss me for so long!" Another moment she was in dark despair, thinking, "What will he think of me for coming in on him like this? He doesn't love me. But he'll be sweet and gentle and his mouth will be amused again. And I'll come out alone!"

At the desk she asked the clerk for the number of Philip's apartment. The clerk called, saying, "Miss Mallare to see you, Mr. Ashley."

Her heart sank. Suppose he wouldn't see her!

But the clerk nodded and told her the number of the apartment. Again she had to wait for an elevator.

Before the door of Philip's apartment her strength seemed to leave her. She felt faint.

Philip's servant lifted shaggy white brows in surprise when he saw her. Then he vanished as she came in and she found herself standing face to face with Philip in a large warm room where only one light glowed faintly.

He frowned. "Well—what a pleasant surprise!" Why had she come? In answer to his desire to see her? How lovely she was in that black suit with her chin lost in the soft fur collar!

He smiled. "I suppose Brenda told you that Lilyan and I are not going to be married tomorrow."

No longer did she care if her eyes betrayed her. He must know! Philip, look and see!

"Yes, she told me. Are you—are you . . . ."

"Hurt? No. Not at all. And that's the truth. I haven't wanted to marry her for weeks but it was the decent thing to do after I'd asked her. I'm immensely relieved."

He wished that a brighter light were burning so that he could see her face more clearly. Were her eyes—those clear, dark blue eyes of hers—as soft and as appealing as they seemed? Should he speak? Now was the time to speak, now that they were alone.

Across the little space that separated them, he looked at her.

"All my life I'm going to have one regret, Karen. Do you remember the night in my car when we were driving out to Tommy Nolting's? In the flame of my cigaret lighter you and I looked at each other. It was only a second, and my one regret is that I put the light out! If it had stayed on another moment, you'd have been in my arms."

He did not move. "Ever since that night, and perhaps, before, you've been moving in my heart."

His firm mouth broke into a sudden smile. "Karen, my dearest, shall I take that one regret to California with me or shall—shall we start from that minute?"

She had to ask, "You love me, Philip?"

In an instant he was beside her his hands on her shoulders.

"Love you? Of course I love you! Why do I love you? You want to know that, too? For a thousand reasons."

He drew her closer and his mouth was close to her face "Why do I love you, Karen? I love you for your imperfection, for your fighting heart, for your courage, and because you've got a temper to lose! And because you are beautiful to look at and beautiful to listen to but mainly because . . . . I can't help myself! You moved in and took possession!

"I can't tell you what it's beeen like planning for a wedding when the only wedding I want to plan is ours—yours and mine!

"Now you say something. We've argued and we've fought but we couldnt' escape each other. . . ."

She looked up. But before she spoke, he kissed her and said, "There are tears in your eyes, Karen. You're the only girl I know who is beautiful when she's crying."

She could not make her voice steady. "Philip, I . . . ."

"I know you. You love me! You've loved me all along. Why didn't I know. Why didn't I find out? I've been such a blind fool!"

Later she would tell him that she was Craig's daughter. But not now. These moments were theirs. It was true. True! These were Philip's arms holding her, Philip looking at her as he had never looked at her before, Philip saying, "Of course I love you!"

"Karen, what do you suppose I've been thinking since this afternoon? I was going away for a while and when I got back I was going to launch a whirlwind campaign to make you love me! Now," he tilted her chin, "now I'm going away and . . . ."

"You don't have to try to make me love you. I do, Philip."

And you and I are going to be married tonight At midnight. Karen, let me hold you close and kiss you again and again until this becomes real."

But it was real, he knew. This was Karen in his arms at last, her warm face against his, her blue eyes stormy no longer.

"We'll be married at midnight," he paused to kiss her again, "and we'll have less than 24 hours for a honeymoon until next summer." He smiled. "You wanted to be an actress. You would be, you know."

"But if you want me to be just your wife, I won't be an actress For weeks I've though that footlights were phantom things, Philip. Only this is real."

"We won't talk about that now. But it will never be an issue between us." He smiled again. "We've done all our arguing before! If you want to be a great actress, I'll help you make yourself a great actress. We'll talk about that later but now . . now . . . ."

The phone rang shrilly With his arm still around her, he picked it up.

Brenda asked, "Is Karen there, Philip? I've been worried . . ."

"Of course she's here! You know she is. You probably sent her!"

"Then you and she . . . ."

"You interrupted plans for our wedding, darling. It takes place at midnight and we want you to be there. You and Craig. And then we're going to try and find some quiet place for a honeymoon. Sid's mountain lodge probably. We're stage people, you know, and the show must go on."

"Oh, Philip, I'm so happy! Where is she now?"

"Beside me where she is going to be always. And after I've kissed her a few more times . . . After all, tonight is the first time I've kissed her. . . ."

"I'm waiting. Craig and I are waiting."

She rang off and Philip put down the phone and drew Karen closer.

"It began on a June night in a shower. Do you remember that night?"

She reached up and put her hands against his face.

"It began that night but it will never end, Philip. We're always going to be as much in love as we are tonight."

"No. We're going to be more in love after midnight."

THE END.

NOTED PIANO TEAM APPEARS IN SECOND CIVIC MUSIC CONCERT

The second number of the Mansfield Civic Music association season will be the noted piano duo, Luboshutz and Nemenoff, now on a tour of American cities. They will be presented at the high school auditorium Tuesday, Jan. 25.

Pierre Luboshutz' partner, Genia Nemenoff, in private life is his wife, their romance developing when she enrolled in his master class in Paris. She had already graduated from the Conservatory of Paris and toured Holland, Belgium, Spain and Germany in a series of concerts, when she met Luboshutz.

The distinguished Russion pianist comes to America with an unusually fine musical background. His one sister, Lea Luboshutz, is a concert violinist and the younger sister, Ana, a cellist of note Pierre began his musical studies first as violinist, but switched to piano while still a boy. At 12 years he was sent to the Conservatory of Moscow, and so highly was his ability rated that when Fritz Kreisler visited Moscow without an accompanist, the 14-year-old Luboshutz was chosen to meet the need. Later he was sent to Paris where he continued his studies under the masters.

He came to America for the first time 11 years ago, and since then has toured the country a number of times. He also played with the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra

Their program for Mansfield will be made up of duo piano numbers and solos.

This will be the second of three attractions to be presented by the music association, the first having been the Russian ballet.

Admission to the concert is by membership tickets only, according to W. L. Miller, president of the association.

LAKE BED SILT PROVES CLAIM OF OLDEST MAN

'Minnesota Man,' Uncovered By Road Builders, Held to Be Oldest Skeleton.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)— Dried silt from a prehistoric lake bed has confirmed claims that the so-called "Minnesota man" represents the oldest human remains ever found in America, the Geological Society of America has been told.

The "Minnesota man"—actually a young girl 15 or 16 years old—was uncovered in 1931 by a roadbuilding crew working near Pelican Rapids, Minn.

Dr. George F. Kay, of the University of Iowa, and Dr. Morris M. Leighton, of the Illinois State Geological survey, re-excavated the site where the bones were found this fall to determine whether the remains were as ancient as claimed

They told the 50th annual meeting of the Geological Society of America that they had no doubts of the antiquity of the "Minnesota man".

"It appears to us that the skeleton is as old as the silts in which it was imbedded," Kay and Leighton said in their report. "These silts are interpreted to be of a late Wisconsin state of the pleistocene or glacial period and hence probably 18,000 to 20,000 years old.

"We believe that it ranks among the oldest human remains thus far found in America."

Dr. Leighton said he believed the so-called "Minnesota Man" lived before the Folsom men, whose arrow points of unique design have been found with the bones of ancient animals. No skeleton remains of Folsom men ever have been unearthed.

"No evidence was seen by us to support the interpretation that the skeleton was intruded into the silts by landslide or other earth movements long after the silts were deposited," they said. "Instead the skeleton appears to have reached its position by natural causes."

Anthropologists who have studied the bones report that this skeleton, of which practically all was found except the footbones, represents a human being of the early Mongoloid type, which indicates that the American primitive man has a common ancestor with the Asiatic Mongoloids of today.

Senate Group to Ask Inquiry In Sale of Automobiles.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The senate interstate commerce committee has recommended a federal trade commission investigation of the practices of manufacturers and dealers in connection with the distribution and sale of automobiles

The committee reported favorably a resolution by Senator Minton (D., Ind.) which would direct the trade commission to determine whether agreements between automobile manufacturers and dealers were "fair and equitable."

The commission would also be directed to find whether dealers had an opportunity to earn a reasonable profit, whether manufacturers "employ coercion to the detriment of the dealer, the consumer and the public and whether "unfair trade practices now employed by dealers are caused by the policies pursued by the manufacturers"

The first union label was used by San Francisco cigar makers about 1874.

FACES CHARGE

Ex-Big League Star Accused In Death of Stenographer.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont.—(U.P.)—Vernon Spencer, 40-year-old Wixom, Mich., farmer and former New York Giants outfielder, has been charged with the murder of pretty Helen Grier, 28, a Pontiac, Mich., stenographer, who died in a lonely hunting cabin north of here last fall.

A coroner's verdict, announced after several days of testimony, was followed immediately by formal charges against Spencer, who occupied the cabin with Miss Grier last Oct. when she met her death.

Spencer, married and the father of two children, said he found Miss Grier's pajama-clad body on the floor of the cabin.

For Double-Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Better Than Ready-Made Medicines. Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, but, for real results, it is still the best thing ever known for coughs that start from colds. Try it once, and you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2⅓ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of actually better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And there is positively nothing like it for quick action. You can feel it take hold instantly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages. No cough remedy, at any price, could be more effective.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 13, 1938.

Science has prolonged the age of man—but reckless motorists are reducing expectancy.

Some folks can remember back to the time when the government gave away nothing more than free seeds.

And to think, it has been only fifteen years since many people "every day, in every way" were getting better and better!

The War Goes On.

GEN. CHIANG KAI SHEK, head of the Chinese army and also virtual head of the civil government, still enjoying the confidence of his people in spite of disastrous defeats, says of the Japanese conquest:

"It is comparatively easy for an army to occupy territory, but it is much more difficult for any army to keep that territory. If Japan thinks China is finished militarily, she is the most self-deluded nation in the world."

The Chinese armies are being reorganized and new armies are raised. Military supplies and equipment are obtained in larger quantity than might be expected, with the Japanese navy virtually blockading the Chinese seacoast. They come from Russia, through Mongolia from Great Britain and America through southern seaports, and across the southern frontier from French Indo-China. Russia, which at present seems to have a bigger stake in Chinese independence than any other country, and a corresponding interest in keeping Japan from growing too powerful, may be expected to increase her co-operation.

It looks dark for China just now, but the war isn't over yet. It may last many years.

Temperance Day In the Schools.

OBSERVANCE of "Temperance day" in the schools of Mansfield and Richland county, planned for tomorrow, can either be made quite interesting or can be confined to prosaic presentation of "the harmful effects of alcohol and the control of its use."

There will probably always be a question as to the effectiveness of "temperance" education, as taught rather perfunctorily in public schools.

It is only fair to school children, of course, that they should in some way be informed of the inadvisability of acquiring the liquor habit, and of the fact that "moderate drinking" is an illusion, rather than a reality, among American drinkers.

Children, it should be remembered, are largely influenced by example instead of precept, and the example which present-day young people in Ohio are having set before them is not such as to encourage belief that a two-hour schoolroom dissertation on "the harmful effects of alcohol and the control of its use" will bring substantial benefits.

Possibly better than such study of the theory of temperance would be a practical demonstration of the effects of booze on a few of Mansfield's bright children of twenty or thirty years ago, who have meanwhile gone along the routine course from "social" drinking to the drunken sots they have since become.

It might also be impressed on school children that there is a vast difference between the American habit of excessive drinking of intoxicants, and the better-controlled drinking habits in other countries of less mixed ancestry, in which education in moderation has extended through many generations.

Possibly the most impressive illustration of the effects of excessive drinking that could be brought to the attention of a class of school children would be to have them see a crowd of ordinarily well-behaved men and women cavorting drunkenly around in a saloon a couple of hours after midnight—and to realize that such disgusting behavior is likely to be indulged in by anyone under the influence of liquor.

Women As Public Servants.

A COMMON observation is that public institutions are seldom run so efficiently as private business institutions. Perhaps it is one of the penalties we pay for free, representative government. Whatever the reason, the fact exists. People have come to expect it as natural and inevitable that public business, whether local, state or federal, should not be managed so well or served so loyally as private business.

There are exceptions, however. Those oftenest noticed, perhaps, are the public schools. And along with them should be mentioned the public libraries. Speaking of one library in particular, which has a reputation for fine service, a patron who has enjoyed its facilities for many years makes an interesting comment:

> "This library is a well organized and highly efficient public institution. It gives taxpayers their money's worth. I do not know why it should be different from so many public enterprises in these respects, but I suspect it may be due to the fact that it is largely administered and served by women, and they have brought to this field of public activity a higher degree of conscientiousness, special training and professional competence than ordinarily prevails in the administration of state institutions dominated by political-minded men."

Here surely is an excellent argument for getting more women into public life, in non-political capacities.

Weather and Tree Rings.

A SCIENTIST who has studied 150 tree stumps has found evidence in 80 per cent of them that wet or dry seasons in the past have followed 46-year cycles. He thinks it may be possible to make long-range general weather forecasts by tree-ring study after enough research work has been done.

The tree-ring forecaster must pay attention to other factors, too, such as sunspots, which have cycles of about 11 years and seem to tie up with the tree rings. The location of the trees is important because the records vary between trees standing alone and those growing close together in competition with others.

This sort of scientific investigation proceeds slowly. Facts, to be useful, must cover long periods of time and must include all influential factors.

The mayor of Woburn (Mass.) reports 3,000,000 gallons of city water missing—with the town's rougher element not even under suspicion.

Railroads Deny 'Watered Stock' Allegation

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—The railroads, as we know, have been beseeching the Interstate Commerce Commission recently to allow them to make a considerable increase in their passenger and freight carrying charges.

At present rates, they say, they cannot continue to operate and "break even," to say nothing of having a small profit margin left over.

The shippers' counter-argument is that they are trying to fix their tariffs upon a basis of fictitiously inflated valuations of their properties; that the transportation figures they seek to impose will make prices so high as to slow up business generally.

This reasoning hurts the feelings of the Association of American Railroads, from which I have received a complaint of unfair treatment in some newspapers.

Naturally I invited the association to submit its case, if possible in simple language, rather than the highly techinical stuff (as obscure to folk like me as ancient Egyptian heiroglyphics) such as has been laid before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Here is the association's story, official, exclusive and unedited.

WHAT RAILROADS SAY

"Freight is carried by the railroads of the United States at less cost to the public than in any other country in the world except in such countries as Japan and India where labor costs are extremely low. In Great Britain the average revenue received by the railroads for carrying a ton of freight one mile in 1936 was 2.38 cents, Germany, 1.40 cents, and France, 1.16 cents. In the United States it was only 97-100 of one cent and in the first eight months of 1937 it was still lower, being only 94-100 of one cent.

'Since 1921, when the average revenue for carrying a ton of freight one mile was 1.27 cents, there has been an almost constant reduction so that the average today not only is the lowest in 16 years, but is a reduction of 26.1 per cent compared with that in 1921.

"Revenue for carrying a passenger one mile received by the railroads of this country was 1.78 of a cent in the first eight months of 1937. This is the lowest average that has ever been realized in this country so far as rail transportation is concerned."

WATERED STOCK?

As to allegations of "watered" stock, the railroad association answers:

"Regarding watered stock:

"Unquestionably, many years ago there were instances of watered stock, not only in railroads but in many other lines of business. But that has no connection with the present situation. Commissioner Eastman, at a hearing before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee on May 9, 1933, said: "Taking the roads in the aggregate, the commission's figures indicate that the net outstanding capitalization in bonds and stock is less than the amount of money actually invested in the properties. This is not true, of course, of various individual railroads. However, some of those which are in grave financial difficulties at the present time are among those which are conservatively capitalized and among those, also, which have not wasted their subsistence in riotous living, i. e., in purchases of stocks of other companies at inflated prices. It is not at all true that financial difficulties are confined to the over-capitalized roads or to those which have squandered capital in such factors.'

"In the annual report of the federal co-ordinator of transportation of June 20, 1934, Mr. Eastman said that while there was inflation of the original capitalization of many railroads, this has been offset in the aggregate by two principal factors: (1) Much investment of surplus earnings in carrier property by more prosperous railroads, and (2), the scaling down of original capitalizations through reorganizations.

"Valuation figures prepared by the Interstate Commerce Commission show that all railroads in this country have approximately 26¾ billion dollars invested in road and equipment.

"Outstanding capitalization of the railroads now in the hands of the public amounts to approximately 18½ billion dollars. An exhibit prepared by the Bureau of Valuation of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the 15 Per Cent Rate Case, Ex Parte 123, upon which hearings are now being held shows, however, that the value of the railroads is nearly 3½ billion dollars greater than the outstanding securities."

THE EXHIBIT

"This exhibit, which was made public a few days ago by the commission shows the following:

"Cost of reproduction, less depreciation—except land and rights, $18,906,861,318; present value of land and rights $2,606,-869,985; working capital, including materials and supplies $300,-193,743. Total, $21,813,925,046.

"You will see from these figures, as well as the statements of Commissioner Eastman and other persons that talk about watered stock is as much out of date as a woodburning locomotive."

AS RAILROADS SEE IT

"But regardless of whether the railroads have any watered stock, the fixing of freight rates has nothing to do with that matter. Neither does it have anything to do with outstanding securities which include both stocks and bonds.

"As a matter of fact, the present plight of the railroads is due to conditions which they face today rather than the results of conditions that existed years ago. There was never a time in the history of this country when the railroads were as efficiently operated as now. In the past 16 years there has been a constant increase in efficiency and economy of operation. Largely due to the fact, the railroads have been able to pass along to the public, through reduced freight and passenger rates, savings that have come about through this increased efficiency and economy in operation.

"At the present time the railroads are caught between increasing cost of operation due to higher prices of materials and supplies, increased wages, and mounting taxes on one hand and reduced revenue resulting from lower average revenues for carrying freight and passengers. Since May, 1933, there has been an increase of 40 per cent in the prices of materials and supplies purchased by the railroads. At the same time, there has been an increase of 25 per cent in their taxes, and 18 per cent in wages. The average revenues for carrying a ton of freight one mile have decreased in that period 10 per cent, and revenues for transporting a passenger one mile have decreased 20 per cent."

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL—

Civil Liberties and Roosevelt's Stand.

LIBERALS who cheer President Roosevelt's Jackson day speech as a new clarion call are worried, however, over F. D. R.'s silence concerning civil liberties.

The president, truly a democrat with a small "d," always has mystified his followers by his failure to become alarmed over civil liberties. Apparently he thinks highly of the La Follette committee's civil liberties investigation. But, aside from Senator Elbert Thomas of Utah, a strongly liberal Democrat, the committee has had no support from Democrats, pro-administration or otherwise.

In the meantime, the machine of millionaire Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, which is the machine of the Democratic party in New Jersey, has been displaying what many term fascistic tendencies and which have brought alarums from a multitude of liberals. Mayor Hague is charged by the C. I. O. with suspending or nullifying the bill of rights—at least in New Jersey— in order to prevent the C. I. O. from organizing workers there. He proclaims that he is the law, and that the policeman's nightstick rules. This, in fact, goes somewhat further than do the dictators, for they surround themselves with the laws of the land that they have formulated. Hague acts regardless of state and national laws, C. I. O. leaders assert.

Yet the national Democratic administration has said nothing—at least publicly.

HOW IT GOES.

Some readers may say, "Oh, let's have laws against agitators."

It would not be long before certain kinds of men in power (even possibly some men who gained power in labor) would be classing everybody who opposed their views as agitators. Homes would be entered. People would cower in terror. Let fascism put one foot into the door—and it goes all the way.

As President Roosevelt said in his Jackson Day speech: Powerful reactionary forces have a manner through half-truths, of making it appear as if efforts to curb them were efforts to curb the people. Whereas, in truth, the efforts to curb reactionary forces are made to FREE the people.

The terror of fascistic laws on this side of the Atlantic, as well as on the other side, is exemplified by the Toronto Star, Canada's largest paper, in this dispatch from Montreal, relating experiences under Quebec's padlock (or anti-union) law:

"Quebec provincial police are assuming powers even beyond those conferred by the Dupelessis padlock law, R. L. Calder told a civil liberties meeting here last night.

"Provincial police were entering homes and organization premises without warrant in their search for allegedly communistic literature, Mr. Calder said.

"Under the act a club of unemployed men in Delorimier ward was closed because of a speech that was considered inflammatory by the attorney general or some of his aides. The homes of two officers of the butchers' union were raided at the time that the members of this union were on strike.

"The officers of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union and the Steel Workers' union were visited by provincial police in accordance with orders under the Padlock act. Passengers arriving in the city of Quebec had their baggage searched by provincial officers to prevent their carrying copies of the French labor paper, Clarte, now printed in Toronto, into the provincial capital.

"On Dec. 30 the premises of the Jewish cultural center were raided and the home of an officer of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers was invaded by officers.

AS IN NAZILAND.

"As if this were not enough, Quebec had embarked on a virtual book burning campaign in no respect dissimilar to Adolf Hitler's. The property of individuals as well as organizations was in danger of police seizure. Already police officers had entered private homes of Montreal citizens, confiscating books ranging from poetry to economics.

"The homes of two persons unidentified with any political or labor movement were raided and papers and books were taken simply on information given by someone who knew the individuals to be fervent students of social and political problems.

"One of these individuals was a man who simply sought to inform himself on the philosophy underlying socialism, fascism, nazism and communism. Police raided his library and confiscated his political and economic books. They also seized a book entitled 'The Land of the Free' on the assumption that a book bearing that title must inevitably be communistic. As a matter of fact, it was a novel dealing with pioneering farm life in the middle west.

"At the meeting plans were laid for a deputation representing organizations of all kinds in the province of Quebec to visit Ottawa and petition the Dominion government to disallow the Padlock act. Any action the federal government can take must be completed before March 24 under the terms of the British North America act."

Listen, World!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON—

Intelligent Experts or Baby-Kissers?

IS POLITICAL LEADERSHIP A HIGHLY SPECIALIZED JOB OR JUST A SOFT SNAP?

Does it require trained, picked men—or professional baby-kissers and back-slappers?

Dr. James B. Conant, youthful president of Harvard university, put those questions up to the electorate lately—though of course in much nicer words. Rhetoric notwithstanding, he made it plenty plain that We, The American People, Are Being Gypped—

AND HAVE ONLY OURSELVES TO THANK!

Meaning just what? Meaning that instead of electing carefully prepared men to govern us . . . men who have specialized in the subject of The American Nation and its peculiar problems . . . we vote for any good-natured slob with a slick come-back. And then wonder why-the-heck we get such a dirty deal!

Getting down to cases — suppose your carbureter or electric refrigerator needed attention. Would you phone for a dancing teacher to fix it . . . or a sign painter . . . or a window-dresser? Elsie, don't be absurd! No, stranger, YOU'RE the one who is being absurd. You wouldn't dream of trusting your high-priced car or refrigerator to anyone but an expert. YET, WITHOUT A QUESTION, YOU PLACE YOUR LIFE AND FORTUNE IN THE HANDS OF AMIABLE MORONS WHO HAVE NO MORE NOTION OF GOVERNMENT THAN A SETTING HEN.

Dr. Conant would alter this idiotic situation by substituting "trained men of superior intellectual attainments" for the traditional cigar distributors. In line with this policy, a new graduate school of public administration is to be opened at Harvard for those already in Government positions.

But will the old Die-Hards accept trained leaders when they can get them? They'll haw-haw derisively . . . call 'em "wet nosed young squirts" . . . and go right on voting for Old Doc Skinem, who gives them a nice red apple at every 'lection time . . . and the run-around the rest of the year.

"WHY DON'T THE FINE PEOPLE GO INTO POLITICS?" That's why—because civic leadership, which should be the most honored position in our national life, has become associated with all that is stupid, uncouth, slippery and inept.

Young America, however, is coming forward rapidly with a new program. Recently this column ran a contest for the youngsters on the subject—"IF I WERE DICTATOR FOR A DAY." Eighty per cent of the 5,000 letters received advocated "training for political leaders." A nineteen year old lad, Louis P. Amoruso, 38 Cameron avenue, Somerville, Mass., suggested as follows:

"THERE SHOULD BE AN ESTABLISHMENT OF A 'WEST POINT OF GOVERNMENT' IN EVERY STATE IN THE UNION. The cream of the intelligent, sincere youths, who want to make politics their life work, should receive the same rigid training for governmental leadership as the young men of West Point now receive to become military leaders. WITHOUT INTELLIGENT ADMINISTRATION, DEMOCRACY WILL DIE! We must take government out of the hands of the common untrained politician and place it in charge of intelligent, trained experts."

That's telling them. What's YOUR answer?

Everyday Poems

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

What After All?

What is living after all?
Little things, you say,
Sharing and remembering
Little things each day.

Many little things, your smile
When you wave good-bye
From the window as I go
Townward; and your sigh

When unhappiness has come
To us, these make up
Oh, so much; these every one
Finds within his cup

Let us guard the way we do
Little things each day,
For they are the substance of Life—just as you say.

Watching The Skaters.

Editor News-Journal:—

The lovely snow storm on Monday urged me out for a bit of a walk before retiring. But I paused for a long, long time at the lower end of Rae avenue to watch the skaters at North Lake Park. It was a beautiful sight!

Snow had been pushed into islands of various shapes and sizes on the surface of the lake, which had been quite clear the day before.

A hundred or more dark figures in the gray light slipped and slid about among those mounds of pure white—they even seemed to fly. Sometimes there was a tumble or a sprawl, but the music of the place, in laughter and shouting, went on.

There were trees in the foreground heavily drenched in snow. Gay splashes of costume! Youth! Exercise! Achievement! It was beautiful! Scientists tell us that the air is never more pure than after a gentle snow.

And I did wish that all the saloons and night clubs in our town would unload all their smoky, rum-soaked cargo into a place like this—and take to selling skates and snow-pants instead. Why not?

The future of America would be much safer and every man's happiness more secure.

About Spending.

During the six months just past the federal government spent $3,821,282,285.

This is roughly as much as the federal government spent during the entire year of 1929.

Yet there are senators and others at Washington who have been saying that the present slump has occurred because the government is spending too little. They want the government to end the depression by spending even more.

After five years of heavy spending on this same theory of economics, the thought should begin to spread at Washington that no recovery that rests and falls on government expenditures is worth having. The only kind that is worth anything, the only kind that can be permanent, is that which proceeds from a healthy revival of private business.

This must be a revival based not on a flood of buying power created artificially out of government credit, but on the confidence of people who want to invest money in business and industry, who want to build factories, buy machinery and increase the wealth of the nation.—St. Paul Dispatch.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Getting the Sack."

You may lose your job; but let us hope you won't get sacked in the way the expression started.

Our slang is as motly a conglomeration as is our great melting pot itself.

From the shores of the Bosporus, sombre, gloomy and menacing for many comes this dire member of our slang talk.

It all began with the old style sultans of Turkey, who, ingenious in matters of this kind, conceived a method of disposing of quondom harem favorites—but definitely!

The former chief object of the ruler's affection was put into a sack which would be weighted down and thrown into the Bosporus.

Travelers in Turkey, apprised of this Far Eastern custom, brought back with them to the west the expression "getting the sack."

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

NEWSPAPER and magazine editors, movie talent scouts and especially newspaper syndicate chiefs are still toying with the forlorn hope of flushing another Will Rogers out of the corn rows. So far every effort has met the usual odious comparison.

Indeed, anyone with half of Roger's tug in similar vein could, in the patois of the Rialto, write his own ticket." His drawl, natural shyness and hesitancy in speech are often simulated. And there are a half dozen in Hollywood extra lists who look, laugh and walk like him.

Also there are a few whose imitative dry humor on stage and radio have much the same homey warmth. Bob Burns, for instance. Yet somehow Burns as well as the rest just miss. They simply haven't got what it takes, the indefinable stuff that was pure Rogersania.

Oddly, one of Rogers's sons and one who would shrink from trying to fill his father's shoes, is believed by many to come nearest to being the original package. He has many of his Dad's jerky mannerisms, speaking stumbles and a heavy fund of alfalfa aphorisms.

The best-mannered movie audiences in town are at the two Trans Lux theaters on the Gold Coast stretch of upper Madison avenue. Most of the clientele is composed of regulars, which include the President's mother, Frank Crowninshield, the Winthrop Alriches, the Byron Foys, Mrs. Vincent Astor and such. Many customers use it as a drop-in between after-dinner and the night club buzz and are ermined and white tied—all very high tea and tra la la!

Buddy Baer, on the upswing in pugilism, shows none of the exhibitionist qualities that brought yawns for his brother Max. Instead of indulging capers in the cafes, he goes to the movies or attends hockey and other sporting events. In his human contacts, he suggests an amiable grizzly—if there is such an animal. His only similarity to his brother is his exuberance. After a recent victory at the Garden he pirouetted around the ring in a veritable fit of hysteria, so much so his handlers had to lead him off to his dressing room ga ga.

A thin horse for a long race is strikingly emphasized by the Broadway columnist Louis Sobol. A fragile, bespectacled fellow who wouldn't weigh more than 125 pounds soaking wet with a flatiron in each hand, he seems to thrive on his nightly circle of the cafes. Wherever Broadway puts on a show or a dido, he is at the ringside jotting down the casualties and transmitting them into capable columns before he calls it a night. The secret of such stamina is, of course, temperance in both food and drink. Sobol came out of New Haven via that journalistic penny-hybrid called The Graphic. He has a wife and daughter, has written a play, several novels and now and then makes personal appearances at the last of the vaudeville houses—Loew's State.

Crosby Gaige, the theatrical producer, is regarded by gourmets as one of the finest cooks this side of the Atlantic and a shrewd judge of wine. Too, he is the first person people think of in an effort to promote a benefit for some truly worthy person. Crosby lets others take the glory but he does the ground work. His latest benevolences were for the late Don Marquis — pronounced Mar-kwiss—who had been out of the running for six years and whose work made life brighter for millions in his time.

Thingumbobs: Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is reputed to have told friends she likes columning best of her chores . . . Col. Jacob Ruppert likes a daily flower, lapel, too . . . Ill wind, etc. note: Cole Porter wrote two of his top songs while convalescing from a pair of broken legs . . . Gabriel Heatter is the favorite radio commentator among members of the supreme court.

He who hesitates. He swayed out of a bar, hailed a taxi, stepped half in, told the taxi to wait and went back to the bar. An hour later, in passing, I peeked in to see the same gentleman on a chair making an impassioned speech to a bored bartender and a nodding customer.

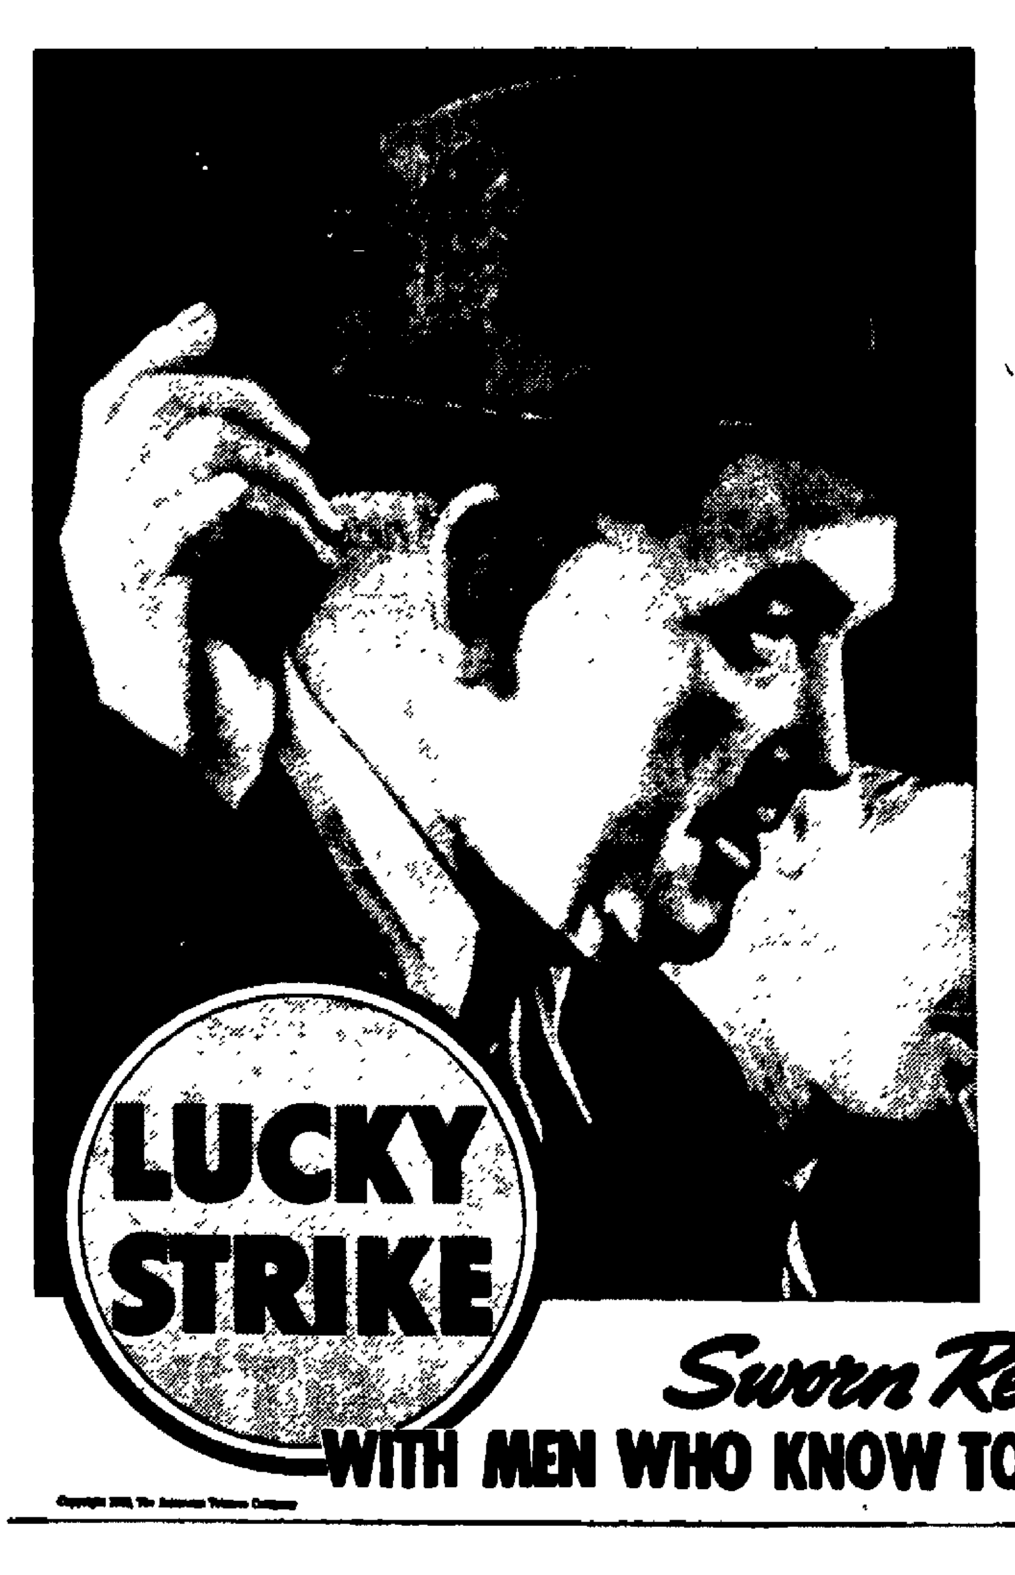
STILL "TOPS"... after 31 Years As a Tobacco Auctioneer



Veteran Jim Edwards tells why tobacco experts prefer Luckies 2 to 1...

"I recently sold 489,000 pounds of tobacco in one 6½ hour day," says Mr. J. N. Edwards of Farmville, North Carolina.

"There was a buyer, naturally, for every one of those 489,000 pounds...But there was as much difference between the best grades and the inferior, as between a pretty girl and a homely one.

"At auction after auction, I've seen Lucky Strike go after the prettiest lots of tobacco. It's no wonder Luckies taste so good. I've smoked them since 1917.

"And another thing . . . even after yelling out tobacco bids all during a seven hour day, Luckies are still just as easy as ever on my throat."

Only Lucky Strike offers you the finest tobacco plus the throat-protection of the exclusive process "It's Toasted". This process takes out certain irritants found in all tobacco—even the finest.

Men who know tobacco from A to Z—experts like Mr. Edwards—are surely good judges of cigarettes...Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

TAFT SUBMITS FEDERAL, STATE RELIEF SET-UP

Program Offered Congress Provides For Matching Of Needy Aid Funds.

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Charles P. Taft recommended to congress today a federal-state fund-matchin relief program in which federal allotments to states would be according to a stipulated formula.

Testifying as chairman of the mobilization for human needs, a national association of community chests, Taft recommended that the amount and character of work relief and those eligible should be left primarily to the states, under standards of administration set up by the federal government. Local programs would be tied in closely to the general program by the states.

The son of the late president and Chief Justice Taft also proposed a national commission, "divorced from politics," to draft a long-range relief program.

Economy Measure.

His federal-state-local plan, he said, "undoubtedly will make possible genuine economy both in local and federal administration, without lowering standards of relief."

"The federal government should appropriate to the states a sum of money according to a stipulated formula to carry out a general relief program, including work relief," Taft, a Cincinnati attorney, said in a prepared statement.

"The amount appropriated by the federal government should be a definite sum available only upon condition tht it be matched by the states in prescribed proportions; each state to apportion to local communities upon any basis it may decide compatible with relief needs.

"The determination of the amount and character of work relief and of those eligible for relief should be primarily the responsibility of the state and local community. This recommendation is not to be taken as opposing a federal program for public works on a non-relief basis."

He said the federal state matching need not necessarily be on a 50-50 basis.

ADMITS CASE

Ohio Supreme Court To Hear $25,000 Mansfield Suit.

A $25,000 personal damage suit brought against Wilbur Beer, Mansfield, by his sister, Miss Helen L. Beer, Mansfield music teacher, was admitted for review today by the Ohio supreme court, dispatches from Columbus said.

Injured in an automobile accident on Lexington avenue in March, 1934, Miss Beer later won a judgment for $2,125 against her brother, driver of the car in which she was riding.

The court decision was reversed, however, when she brought a supplementary action against the Buckeye Union Casualty company of Columbus in an attempt to collect on her judgment.

The case was appealed to the supreme court after the Fifth district court of appeals affirmed the common pleas court's reversed decision in November. Miss Beer contended she was a paying passenger in the automobile by virtue of having paid for the gasoline in the car at the time of the accident.

MAPS ATTACK

Kai-Shek To Direct Raid On Japs Menacing Rail Line.,

SHANGHAI—(AP)— Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek flew to Suchow today. Chinese sources said, to direct an attack on Japanese invaders threatening the Lunghai railway, China's east-west lifeline.

With General Han Fu-Chu, commander of Shantung armies, Chiang was said to have outlined a major counter-offensive along the Tsinpu railway, which meets the Lunghai at Suchow, some 300 miles northwest of Shanghai.

For a week Chinese armies have been massing in the area. A stretch of 150 miles along the Tsinpu—which links Tientsin and Pukow—still was in Chinese hands. Suchow itself has been the goal of a two-way Japanese push—north from Nanking and south from Tsinan, conquered Shantung province capital.

Chinese yesterday lost Tsining, 120 miles south of Tsinan.

Snowfall yesterday and last night measured only a half inch according to Observer Otto Spranger, although a strong west wind drifted the snow much deeper than that in many places.

KIWANIS OPPOSE EXTENSION OF LIQUOR CURFEW

Club Also Passes Resolution Backing Improvements In City Water System.

Another protest against extending the night club closing hours beyond 1 a. m. was voiced today by the Kiwanis club in a resolution declaring themselves "opposed to any extension of night club closing hours."

The resolution drafted and approved by the board of directors was presented to the members by President Charles W. Conklin at the regular noonday luncheon meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The club also passed a resolution introduced by motion, that placed them on record as favoring "whatever action necessary for the city to proceed with the first bracket of improvments in the water system."

Calls for $225,000.

The first bracket, which has been estimated by engineers at the cost of $225,000, calls for a tank tower and booster pump in Woodland district to re-enforce the pressure in that area, new high capacity mains to the mercantile district, and general extensions in mains and laterals throughout the city. This would also eliminate the Hedges street pumping station for reasons of economy

City officials, guests at the Kiwanis meeting this noon were Mator Claude M. Hunter, Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert, Superintendent of the Waterworks James Herlihy, Fred Miller, chairman of council's finance committee, C. N. Shultz, chairman of the water committee and Councilman-at-large James E. Crum.

Meanwbile Russell D. Porch, chairman of city council's special committee appointed to consider the proposal to amend the night club "curfew" ordinance, "expected to have the report completed today" for presentation to council at a special session tomorrow night.

He declined to say whether an amendment would be recommended to the present ordinance to extend the night club closing hour to 2:30 a. m. The present ordinance calls for a 1 a. m. closing hour for all liquor establishments.

A Farmer's Diary

January 12.

THIS morning, in the orchard, I came upon the trunk of a Grimes Golden apple tree, which was destroyed by a heavy truck. I pulled it out of a bank of snow, placed it upon my shoulder, and carried it to the house. My goal was the furnace. Here its final rites and funeral pyrs. I watched it burn, first the thick dark smoke and then the blaze. I heard the sharp exploding sound that heat will make. A vent in the furnace door covered the opposite wall with weird, swift moving shadows. I smeled the rare, sweet, pungent odor of apple wood.

And now one of my friends has gone, with only its ashes to replenish the earth from which it came.

Sixteen years ago I planted 50 apple trees. I sprayed, pruned and fertilized them. When they had grown well for six years, one November a plague of mice girdled almost every trunk between the soil and heavy sod. I bridge grafted for several days, and only one tree died. These trees are living, vital beings to me. I know them all by name. Their bloom each spring and the red and yellow fruit in the autumn are so beautiful and fragrant that it gives one a touch of pain for what he cannot express.

ALGER STORIES THINGS OF PAST

106th Birthday Anniversary of Author Finds Books Are No Longer Available.

their characters: always going from one amazing adventure into another, to find great honors and riches in the end. If a poor little ragged orphan found a pocketbook on the street, he returned it somehow to the owner, and the owner was always a millionaire, and either adopted the boy because of his sterling qualities, or, by some miraculous means, turned out to be the boy's own long-lost father.

The Alger books had a great vogue about the same time as the Henty books—girls of the same period were reading the Elsie Dinsmore stories—and were considered of much higher literary standards than the Dick Merriwell stories.

Boys today, according to Miss MacKellar, demand fiction that ties in with modern times, about aviation, travel adventures and adventures in chemistry, science and mechanics.

But they still thrill to tales of the Wide Open Spaces and cowboy stories, truer to facts than formerly, and tales of the American Indians.

Alger, who was born at Revere, Mass., Jan. 13, 1832, received his inspiration to write when he went to New York City after graduating from Harvard university, and attempted to better the deplorable conditions of the metropolis' street urchins and newsboys.

He wrote for a number of newspapers and periodicals and finally began his series of books, which included "Pluck and Luck," "Ragged Dick," "Tattered Tom" and others. In all, there were about 70 books, and the sale ran well over 800,000 copies.

While the Alger books are not considered "good literature" today, many men in high places in the nation's industries, financial circles, professional and scientific worlds probably remember that they devoured the Alger books as boys and were secretly inspired to become "poor but honest heroes."

GRAND JURY IN SESSION HERE

Crime Investigations Delayed Hour While Replacements For Panel Are Found.

Delayed more than an hour while five replacements were found for grand jurors unable to serve, the first session under the January term of the Richland county court opened shortly after 10 a. m. today.

The jury, which is expected to be in session until Friday afternoon, will consider charges against 13 men and one woman, according to Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott.

Because the regular jury room is being used by state examiners of county offices, the jury met in the jury conference room across the hall and to the rear of the common pleas court room.

Jurors who were impaneled as replacements were Harry Gurney, 131 Rowland avenue; George E. Conant, 250½ Marion avenue; Dimon Herring, 29 Blymyer street; Albert Roth, 109 West Third street and J. H. Hodgson, manager of the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

BABY BOND SALE COSTLY TO U.S. TREASURY SAYS

Social Security Collection Also Expensive Program, House Group Told.

WASHINGTON— (AP)—Records of a congressional committee disclosed today that two administration activities—selling "baby bonds" and collecting security taxes—are proving unusually expensive.

Edwin L. Kilby, assistant commissioner of the treasury's public debt service, told the house appropriations committee the small denomination bond program had cost about $3,606,870 from 1935 to 1937 and that it would cost approximately $6,095,000 during the next two years.

"It is true that they are an expensive security to market," Kilby said, "but I do not believe any security has been better marketed or more widely spread among the population of our country."

$1.44 to Collect $100.

Later in the hearings, Frederick I. Evans, budget officer of the internal revenue bureau, told the committee, in response to a question by Rep. Ludlow (D-Ind.) as to whether the social security taxes cost more to collect than other taxes, that the bureau spent $1.44 to collect each $100 in social security and railroad retirement taxes.

The committee learned, however, the bureau hoped to save about $4,000,000 annually by having the social security tax returns filed on a quarterly basis instead of monthly.

Secretary Morgenthau offered a bristing defense of the use of funds derived from the social security tax.

"We are not only complying with the letter of the law but with the spirit of the social security act," he said.

"As those funds come in, they go into the general funds and we issue special interest-bearing treasury obligations as evidence of the investment of the funds. In this fiscal year it is estimated that there will be available for investment somewhere in the neighborhood of $1,000,000,000 of social security funds."

BOOSTS ALLEN

Donahey Backs Woman Judge For U. S. Court Post.

WASHINGTON— (AP)—Senator Donahey (D-Ohio) endorsed Judge Florence E. Allen of the sixth circuit court of appeals today for appointment to the Supreme court.

"Miss Allen," said Donahey, "is a good woman who has the interests of America at heart. There is no question she has the background and qualifications to fill the high judicial bench vacated by Justice John G. Sutherland."

Judge Allen, whose home is in Cleveland, was appointed to the circuit court after serving two terms as a member of the Ohio Supreme court.

"The matter of sex," Donahey said, "should not enter into consideration of appointments to any high post. The sole question to be considered is whether the prospective appointee is qualified."

GLASS TO JOIN IN FILIBUSTER

Senate Bloc Awaits Speech of 'Unreconstructed Rebel.'

WASHINGTON — (U.P) — Sen. Carter Glass (D., Va.), who celebrated his 80th birthday last week, was expected to participate today in the senate filibuster against the anti-lynching bill.

Glass, whom President Roosevelt has described as "the unreconstructed rebel," probably will reiterate the contention of other opponents of the controversial measure—that its passage threatens the unity of the Democratic party.

Other filibusterers looked forward enthusiastically to Glass' speech, expecting it to give added impetus to the southerners' fight to prevent the bill coming to a vote.

ORDERS VOTE IN NORTH IRELAND

Prime Minister Orders Parliament Dissolved, Election Feb. 9.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland—(AP)—Dissolution of the Northern Ireland parliament Jan. 20 and general elections Feb. 9 were ordered unexpectedly today.

Lord Craigavon, prime minister of Northern Ireland, declared the early elections were precipitated by the issue over union with Ireland, formerly the Irish Free State.

Unification was expected to be raised by Eamon de Valera, prime minister of Ireland, at conferences in London Monday with British statesmen.

The time has come, Lord Craigavon declared, "to put the question of Ulster (Northern Ireland) beyond doubt."

POSTAL INCOME FALLS BEHIND

Estimate for Fiscal Year to be $20,000,000 Lower.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The post office department has estimated that its income for the year starting July 1 will be $775,000,000—$20,000,000 less than it had figured on last Nov. 22.

The revised estimate was transmitted by Postmaster General Farley to a house appropriations sub-committee, which approved the treasury-postoffice appropriation bill today.

In a letter of Dec. 29, Farley also reduced the estimate for the current fiscal year from $761,500,000 to $752,500,000.

COUNTY FUNDS HIKED $26,500

Total Appropriation For 1938 Down $18,700 Due to Drop In Bond Retirement.

officers, but took no action on the request due to lack of funds and the fact that the considered the court expansion a city government function.

The $2,000 item for inspection of county offices is required only every three years when state inspectors come here for the examination.

In appropriating $5,500 for retiring the debt to the state, the county is following up its agreement of last summer to pay on the amount owed in order to assure the receipt of its monthly sales tax allocations.

The debt, which includes the county's contribution for expenses of keeping its inmates in state-operated institutions, has accumulated over a period of years, Wolfe said. No payments were made last year, and the state auditor threatened to withhold sales tax funds until an agreement to pay was signed by county commissioners.

The major change in a county department fund was a cut of $4,000 in the appropriation for agriculture and the county agent's office. From $10,870 last year the appropriation was cut to $6,870 this year because an inspection of cattle for tuberculosis will not be required in 1938. The work cost $4,000 last year.

An increase of approximately $13,000 was made in the county road and bridge fund for 1938, with the total boosted to $210,000 from $197,551 last year. The increase, Wolfe pointed out, will be taken care by additional funds expected from state auto license and gasoline tax receipts which make up the entire fund.

Free of Debt in 1940.

With the county's bonded debt reduced to about $160,000, the bond retirement appropriation was cut from $102,569 last year to $68,362 in 1938.

"At the beginning of 1939 the county will owe only $92,000 on bonds and by 1940 the debt will be paid off," Wolfe said.

"It is our policy," he added, "not to issue more bonds unless the people vote them."

An appropriation of $46,336 was made for poor relief bonds, a reduction of about $14,000 from last year's figure. The relief bond retirement and interest funds are provided by the state.

"General fund increases will be provided for by increased collection if current and delinquent taxes and a slightly higher tax duplicate for 1937 and 1938," Wolfe said.

A comparison of 1937 and 1938 appropriations follows.

GENERAL FUND	1938 Appropriat'n	1937 Appropriat'n

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m. at the United Brethren church. Rev. O. E. Knapp, pastor of the local church, officiated, and interment was in Fairview cemetery here.

Survivors are his widow and a step-daughter; two brothers, Cloyce of Bucyrus, and Albert of Marengo, Morrow county.

Supreme Court Possibilities

Two more names have been added to the list of possibilities to succeed retiring Justice George Sutherland on the supreme court bench. They are Justice Harold Stephens of the court of appeals in the District of Columbia (left) and Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, jr., of the U. S. circuit court of appeals in Texas. Justice Stephens, formerly on the staff of the department of justice, comes from Utah.

FLYING BOAT'S FUEL EXPLODED

vaporized and ignited, presumably by a hot exhaust pipe. Whether an explosion occurred in mid-air or after the 21-ton all-metal flying boat hit the water was not hazarded by authorities here.

If the story told by natives is true, the plane, or gasoline and oil from its tanks, must have burned on the surface of the water. They told of seeing a large volume of black smoke rise from the water at the time the plane disappeared.

Official statements of Pan American Airways and naval officers issued before the fragments had been returned here and studied, spoke only of the plane being destroyed by fire.

The Avocet's officers cryptically announced:

"Plane and crew lost"

They briefly listed the items recovered and added, 'no evidence of bodies"

The crew consisted of Musick, Brooks, Findley; First Officer Cecil G. Sellers, Los Angeles, 44; Paul S. Brunk, 30, junior flight officer; J. W. Stickrod, 23, Los Angeles, engineering officer; and Navigator F. J. MacLean, 42, of Alameda.

Musick was making his last flight over the Honolulu-New Zeland route which he had pioneered, as he had many other of Pan American's major lines. He had flown more than 1,000,000 miles, establishing an enviable string of world records and winning the Harmon trophy in 1935 for outstanding service to aviation.

No blame whatsoever was attached to Musick, his crew or the ground crew for the crash.

SHELBY—The annual financial report for Sharon township shows a decrease of $5,860.55 in the depository balance for 1937 as compared with 1936, according to Bert Fix, township clerk.

JOIN IN STATE FAIR MEETINGS

3 Members of Richland Board In Columbus Seeking New Ideas for County Show.

At least three Richland county fair officials and C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of county commissioners, were in Columbus today to attend joint sessions of the Ohio Fair Managers association and the state board of agriculture.

Mitchell will sit on his first meeting of the board since he was named to the organization only two weeks ago by Gov. Martin L. Davey

Representing the Richland county fair interests were Walter W. Shafer, Lexington, secretary of the fair board; A. W. Strater, Mansfield, treasurer of the board, and B. H. Huston, Shelby, who is in charge of the fair's racing program.

A banquet at which prominent Ohioans will speak, will bring the two-day convention to a close tonight. Speakers will be Gov. Davey, Earl H. Hanefeld, director of agriculture; Judge I. L. Holderman of Dayton, president of the Fair Managers association; former Governor Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati, and Major Norman Imrie of the Columbus Dispatch.

Richland county fair men, who laid plans for a rejuvenation of the county exposition at their annual meeting last week, had a special purpose in attending the meeting.

They hoped to gain ideas on how to put the fair back on a paying basis and to study schedules of other fairs in northern Ohio before setting a date for the 1938 Richland county fair.

FRENCH CABINET, PLAGUED BY LABOR PROBLEM, AVOIDS CRISIS

PARIS — (U.P) — The popular front cabinet, plagued by labor and finance problems, fought off a crisis today after Finance Minister Georges Bonnet had threatened to resign.

After an emergency meeting of three hours and 20 minutes, with Pierre Fournier, governor of the Bank of France, sitting in part of the time, officials announced that Premier Camille Chautempts would draft a statement on finances, to be read this afternoon in the chamber of deputies.

As the cabinet meeting started, general nervousness prevailed lest resignation of Bonnet, and of the entire cabinet, be announced today. But no resignations were announced. It had been reported that Bonnet, offering his resignation, agreed to defer it until tomorrow at least to give Chautempts a chance to seek an agreement between employers and workers, to end a long series of strikes, and to strengthen finances.

Bonnet was dissatisfied both with the finance situation and failure of the government to effect an agreement between capital and labor.

It was feared, however, that there could not be a real liquidation of the crisis for several days even if Bonnet withheld his resignation, and leaders of the left wing popular front cabinet prepared for a fall.

Edouard Herriot, president of the chamber, former premier, and veteran leader of the radical Socialist party, was mentioned as a possible successor to Chautempts in a re-formed popular front cabinet.

The franc weakened this morning because of the crisis but on the stock market industrials rose and government bonds were stronger.

YEAR'S INCOME OF MUNY COURT SET AT $22,700

Report Shows Net Profit of $10,700; Docket for 1937 Included 2,400 Cases.

Mansfield's municipal court, which finished 1937 with a net profit of $10,743, continued to be a source of considerable income to the city last year as revenue from civil and criminal cases amounted to $22,732, the annual report of Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch revealed today.

The major portion of this revenue was paid into the city's general fund and more than doubled the operating costs of the court. The remainder was distributed to the state and county and to the mainenance of the law library.

Operating costs of the court, including the salaries of the judge and clerks and deputies, amounted to $11,988. Of this amount, $2,000 was paid by the county and township, since the court has jurisdiction in Madison township cases and all misdemeanors in the county.

The 1,367 criminal cases which cleared through the court produced revenue of $4,458, or $1,196 more than was derived from the 1,527 cases handled in 1936, the report showed.

Traffic Fines Up $1,400.

In addition, the collection of traffic fines taken in by the police department traffic bureau produced $4,673, as compared with $3,260 collected through the same source in 1936.

During the year 1,003 civil cases were filed with the court as compared with the 868 cases either heard, decided or settled during the previous year. The only source of revenue from such cases is the costs assessed, which amounted to $3,645.

Ouster proceedings or forcible detention cases filed with the court during the past year numbered 121 as against the 1936 figures of 253. However no actual evictions were made in the past year as compared with the five listed in 1936.

The report, listing in detail the number of criminal cases, showed as in the past, that intoxication was responsible for more than one-third, or a total of 519 of the offenses listed. Second on the list of the crimes most frequently committed was that of careless and reckless driving, including speeding. There were 181 motorists charged with this offense, an increase of 68 over the previous year. Assault and battery was third on the list with 118 cases.

OPPOSE PLAN

Cleveland C. of C. Foe of Lake Erie Canal Project.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Chamber of Commerce is opposed to plans for a Lake Erie-Ohio river canal calling for expenditure of $178,965,000 for a 12-foot channel from Rochester, O., on the Ohio river, to Wheeler creek, west of Ashtabula.

The chamber board of directors approved a report by its transportation committee which said "if the cost of construction should exceed the estimate, or if a lesser amount of tonnage is conveyed than is anticipated, savings would be sharply reduced and perhaps entirely eliminated."

Under the proposal, the government would pay $152,039,000 and local interests along the right of way $26,926,000 toward the estimated total cost.

Report Roosevelt Seeks Curb on Installment Buying

CAPITAL HEARS SLOAN FROWNS ON PROPOSAL

President Seeking To Reduce 'High Pressure' Sales; Hits 'Overselling' Of Rails.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt was reported today in usually reliable quarters to be negotiating in his conferences with business leaders for a curtailment of credit on installment buying.

Informed persons said he had suggested to the motor industry a tightening of sales credit in line with his previously expressed intention of eliminating "high pressure salesmanship."

This was one of the topics the president was said to have discussed Tuesday with Alfred P. Sloan, jr., chairman of the General Motors corporation, and four other prominent industrialists.

Rejects Proposal.

One well-posted government official said the president had proposed that the auto industry limit its extension of credit on the purchase of cars to 25 per cent, but that Sloan had rejected the suggestion as too drastic.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt had proposed that this limitation be imposed immediately or at some future time when there were evidences of over-selling was not disclosed.

Others at the conference—Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel corporation; Lepis Brown, president of Johns-Manville; M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and Colby Chester, chairman of the General Foods corporation—were not so directly connected with the problem of installment sales.

At a press conference last week, however, the president told of a steel manufacterer whose production had dropped from 90 to 28 per cent of capacity because of the slump in automobile production and uneven purchases of rails by the railroads.

Hits Rail Buying.

Mr. Roosevelt said steel production had been unbalanced by railroads purchasing rails for an entire year at one time, causing an undue acceleration of production during part of the year and a slump during the remainder.

At the same time the president criticized the automobile industry for selling cars on a 24 months' credit arrangement instead of the previous 18 months, and for overselling by telling prospective purchasers that the price was going up.

Mr. Roosevelt is going ahead with his talks with business leaders. The biggest conference arranged so far will take place next Wednesday when 50 members of the commerce department's influential business advisory council come here to discuss recovery with the president.

Friends Alarmed As Pastor Ends 2nd Week of Fast

MEMPHIS, Tenn—(AP)—Friends of the Very Rev. Israel Harding Noe waited fearfully today as the 46-year-old clergyman neared the end of his second week without food or water.

Although the dean of St. Mary's fashionable Episcopal cathedral has been carrying on a full schedule of work, physicians among his friends have expressed belief his collapse may come at any hour. He has told them what he is doing is a spiritual demonstration beyond their comprehension.

Friends said Dean Noe had subsisted all of last year on oranges alone, starting from Dec. 23, 1936. Since January 2, the first Sunday of 1938 he has taken only the tiny wafer and sip of wine of the communion service he holds three times weekly.

In a statement last night, Dean Noe expressed regret for the story published yesterday concerning his demonstration, saying it was "premature."

"The story will come out in due course of time when my whole philosophy of life has been worked out and lived out and that will be time enough for all who are interested in the fact that man can, here and now, put the fullness of the godhead bodily, provided he is a willing instrument in the father's hands," the dean said.

There is one Mansfield boy who reads Horatio Alger, although the once famous writer of boys' stories is all but forgotten by the present generation. He is George Porterfield, 11-year-old son of Mrs. Marie Marks Porterfield, Mansfield pianist. George has a big dark, private "cave" (it was once a clothes closet), entrance to which is gained through a corregated paper box! He crawls in there, with a sack of pretzels, and reads the Alger stories, which he recently found in his Grandfather Porterfield's attic at Mt. Vernon. For the time being they have replaced his favorite detective, adventures and animal stories.

Helen A. Stoner, Mansfield girl who was seriously injured in an auto accident on West Fourth street three months ago, in which one of her companions was killed, wants to say "Thank you!" to more than 100 persons, but not having a private secretary, has asked this column to say it for her. Yesterday was Helen's 20th birthday, and also the end of the third month that she has been confined to her bed, and she received 109 birthday cards, three telegrams, and a number of gifts from friends. It will be some time yet before she can be up and around, according to her mother, Mrs. Gertrude Stoner, 109 North Mulberry street.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates has his wooden gun back in the locked cabinet at his office, and has no explanation for its return, except that it turned up the other day on the Ohio theater stage, in plain sight, after having been missing since the night of the charity show, Dec. 18. In addition to looking alarmingly like a real .45 caliber pistol, it has a police history, and the chief is glad to have it back.

Snow-clad Central park, surrounded by parked automobiles, today prompted visitors to the courthouse to compare the scene with a picture on the wall in the office. Taken Jan. 7, 1862, the photo shows the courthouse as it stood in the center of the park with snow drifts piled high around the building. Hitched to posts around the park were nearly 50 horses, most of them loaded with packs or hitched to large sleds.

NOYES TO QUIT A.P. PRESIDENCY

Retires At End Of Present Term After Serving News Service For 38 Years.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Frank B. Noyes of Washington announced today his retirement from the presidency of the Associated Press, at the expiration of his present term. He has held the position through 38 eventful years of newspaper history.

To the board of directors, in session here, Mr. Noyes disclosed his decision not to accept re-election, under any circumstances, at the expiration of his present annual term in April. After his long service, he said, he felt entitled to pass on to younger hands a task to which he has devoted himself since his 30's. On July 7, next, he will be 75.

The board unanimously expressed regret at his withdrawal, which means the end of one of the most notable tenures in American journalism. His present and last term of office as president will extend through the annual meeting of members in April, and his successor will be elected by the board immediately thereafter.

Mr. Noyes will continue as president of the Evening Star at Washington. Asked today whether he would permit himself to be considered for continuing service on the board of the Associated Press, he said he would leave that to the membership at large, which will vote for directors at the April meeting.

The Washington publisher has been on the board and the executive committee of the present Associated Press and its predecessor corporation for 44 years.

RED CROSS COMMITTEE RENAMED; SPETKA CONTINUES AS CHAIRMAN

The entire executive committee of the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross, with one additional member, was re-elected yesterday at the annual meeting of the chapter, and three officers of the board who served last year were returned to office.

William J. Locke, Roll Call chairman last fall, was elected vice president to replace Mrs. V. E. Vining who continues on the board. The new member of the executive committee is Mrs. Leopold Adams.

Roy R. Spetka was re-elected general chairman of the chapter, and Allen Bond was returned as treasurer. Gertrude B. English, executive secretary, was elected for the 14th consecutive year She has been on the staff 16 years.

Other board members re-elected were Rev Hayes M Braker, John H. Finefrock, Mrs. George L. Draffan, Mrs. W. J. Bishop, Dr. D. D. Deeds, Harker A. Enlow, Mrs F D. Mahan, Mrs. John Pierce, Mrs. V. E Vining, Dr. R. C. Wise, Harold D. Burns, George H. Smith, Fred L. Tracy, M. V. Rutherford, all of Mansfield; Mrs. C. C. Fish and R. I. Lewis, of Shelby; Mrs. D. J. Kochheiser, of Bellville, and Mrs. G. W. Pickens, of Plymouth.

In the annual report of all Red Cross services, Mrs. English said that the chapter during the past year had accomplished every objective which it had set for itself at the beginning of 1937.

Safety and first aid were stressed Two hundred and seventy-five adults were trained in first aid and 380 students had a course in emergency first aid. The county now has four highway first aid stations, two near Mansfield on Route 30, one near Lucas and another at the intersection of Route 42 at Lexington. Last summer 169 were trained in life saving methods and a full-time instructor was employed by the chapter.

Home hygiene had care of the sick, a training service which was begun the latter part of 1937, is one of the new Red Cross services which is under way, Mrs. English said.

Junior Red Cross, made up entirely of school children of the county, was active during the year, purchased 45 pairs of glasses for underpriviliged children and contributing $732 to the flood relief fund in the spring.

The disaster preparedness committee of the Red Cross reported $22,296 contributed by Richland county people to the flood victims, as well as 22,000 garments and many jars of food Volunteer work, the backbone of the American Red Cross, reached a new high in the county the past year, with 772 persons giving 8,634 hours of volunteer labor, the report said.

The chapter also won the state honor flag for the third consecutive year, for the highest membership per capita of any in the state.

RESCUE SQUADS BLOCKED BY GAS IN COAL TUNNEL

Victims Of Pennsy Explosion Die As Deadly Gas Rushes Through Shafts.

BULLETIN

HARWICK, Pa.—(U.P.)—Penetrating a wall of deadly gas, rescue crews, equipped with gas-masks, today reached the bodies of the last two men who were among the ten killed in an explosion at the mine of the Harwick Coal and Coke company.

HARWICK, Pa.—(U.P.)—A solid wall of methyne gas, lighter than air but strong as steel because of its deadliness, today blocked rescue squads from reaching the bodies of two men among the 10 killed when gas exploded at the mine of the Hardwick Coal and Coke company.

Eight bodies already have been found in the three-mile passage running 300 feet under ground in which two remaining victims of the explosion are believed to be lying. C. W. Gibbs, general manager of the Harwick company, said there were "only two chances out of a million" that the missing miners might be found alive.

Gas Fills Tunnel.

Those of the 10 not killed instantly when the explosion ripped through the passage shortly before noon yesterday died anyway. They were unable to escape methyne and carbon monoxide gas which poured through the passage when ventilation was disrupted by the blast. Every "brattice" in a 3,000 foot stretch was believed blown out.

H. Edgar Sweet, general superintendent of the mine, refused to send gas-masked rescue men further into the passage until pumps displace the stretch of gas with fresh air. He agreed with P. T. Nairn, of the Pennsylvania state department of mines, that it would be "foolish to risk human life when the two missing miners have virtually no chance of being alive."

Deadliness of the gasses within the passage was shown in the death of Matthew H. Anderson, 57, Harwick, an assistant foreman, who escaped the explosion but could not make his way through the passage. Had he been able to crawl 100 feet further, rescue men said, he would have reached fresh air. And [illegible]ons's body was found sitting in a natural position against a timber where he must have stopped for a few minutes' rest.

Identification of three of the bodies, discovered at 4:45 a. m., was made when they were brought to the surface. The other five were identified yesterday.

Mine operators said that two things prevented the explosion from being a disaster comparable to a blast at the Harwick mine in 1904 when 179 were blown to death. The first was that the 518 men usually working the coal bed were off yesterday, and the second was that lime had been dusted throughout the drifts to settle coal dust.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Murder, Suicide End Strange Love Of Father, Daughter.

SCOTTDALE, Pa.—(AP)—Death—recorded today as murder and suicide—ended the strange love of a father and daughter who met only recently in this Westmoreland county mining village, then learned their relationship.

The girl's mother, Pearl Hollis, found the bodies, side by side and both shot in the head, in the living room of her home yesterday.

Dr. H. Albert McMurray, coroner, identified the dead as 47-year-old Nelson Meese and his 17-year-old daughter, Nellie. McMurray listed the deaths as murder and suicide

The coroner said Meese had not seen his daughter since her birth until they met here recently, and that the two had then fallen in love. He said two letters found in the girl's purse led him to this conclusion

The coroner said Nellie was born to Meese and Pearl Hollis. The girl lived with her mother Coroner McMurry recalled that he was attending physician at Nellie's birth 17 years ago at Youngwood, near Greensburg.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

IT IS A PITY there is no way to estimate the effect of the great Jackson day radio barrage of the New Dealers, planned to impress the people with the extraordinary notion that the current depression is due to a sinister conspiracy upon the part of inhuman and immensely powerful, but very anonymous, business men to discredit Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Because, if there were a way to measure the impression and identify the impressed, it would illuminate the whole field of politics and be extremely educational to politicians. For one thing, it would make clear just how credulous the people really are. For another, it would define more definitely the limits of demagoguery and for another it would establish the relative potency of radio and newspaper appeal—a point very useful to discover, indeed.

THERE IS, of course, no way by which these factors can be arrived at. None the less, it is interesting to review the record. Briefly, the series of events leading up to the barrage were these:

First, there was the secret White House conference of left wing senators at which the president's disposition to conciliate business was changed into a determination not to accept any responsibility for the "business recession."

Second, there was the conference participated in by the excitable Leon Henderson, the interesting Isadore Lubin, the versatile Tommy Corcoran and others at which the notion that big business had deliberately brought about the slump was affectionately elaborated and dressed up.

Third, there was the sending of Mr. Ickes, Mr. Jackson and Mr. Henderson out in advance of the presidential message to inaugurate over the air what Arthur Krock of the New York Times called a "Week of Hate."

* * *

THE PRESS reaction to that was extremely unfavorable. Even some of the most pronounced Roosevelt papers condemned the idea. It was not only that Mr. Ickes with his absurd "sixty families" stuff, and Mr. Jackson with his pumped up fury over monopolistic practices, failed to ring the bell, but the idea of business men ruining themselves economically for the sake of damaging Mr. Roosevelt politically was a little too silly to take seriously. The result of the press reaction was that Mr. Roosevelt in his message "pulled his punches" very much and left the Messrs. Ickes and Jackson pretty far out on the limb. It was not until Saturday night that the attack was renewed with many simultaneous assaults over the air, the president limiting his denunciation to a "mere handful" of unnamed business men, but his aids again smearing business generally.

WHILE there were a dozen variations of the tune they all sang in the same key. The basic thought intended to be conveyed was that the "business recession" had been engineered by the "Haves" to frustrate New Deal efforts to aid the "Have Nots." While Mr. Roosevelt was more restrained in this charge than the others, that was the burden of the song. Nor do the recent White House conferences with business leaders change the fact, though they do add to the confusion. The calculation back of the Jackson day outburst was to nullify the effect of the general newspaper ridicule of the conspiracy theory. They knew the first blast from Ickes and Jackson, supplemented by Henderson, referred to by his admirers as the New Deal "ideal man," did not take well. The Jackson day oratory was intended to give the people "full strength."

HOLDING UP to scorn his "mere handful" of wicked and strictly anonymous industrialists, Mr. Roosevelt pledged himself to "fight," though against whom and for what he was somewhat vague. At the same time his selected subordinates unloosed their heaviest fire against business in general. Now, it is anybody's guess as to the result. Certainly the newspapers offset the first radio attack. Whether the second and greater burst of aerial oratory nullified the newspapers there is no way to tell. The New Dealers contend they put their idea over with the people generally and, even while the president confers with industrialists at the White House, it is being echoed by New Deal spokesmen in different parts of the country.

ON THE OTHER HAND, General Johnson, who has recently been traveling around, asserts that while the president today is stronger than ever with the CIO and the colored people, he has lost considerably in prestige among the farmers and "tremendously and irretrievably" in prestige with the little business man and white-collar worker; that the business "plot" idea was too obviously false for any but the most blindly prejudiced to swallow. Perhaps he is right. At any rate, having committed themselves, from president down, to the theory that there exist these bad and brutal business men who enslave the people and plot against the noble president, the New Deal spokesman will continue along those lines and we are sure to hear a lot more speeches to that general effect. The impression made will be in exact proportion to the boobishness of the radio audience—and there is no yardstick with which to measure that. One handicap the New Dealers have in this line of attack is that not many of them believe their own stuff.

Hollywood Speaks—.

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Now that all the critics have had their say about the past year's "bests" in the movies, it's interesting and revealing to check up on what the public had to say on the subject—at the box-office.

Oddly, in view of the legend to the contrary, the paying public and the non-paying critics were not too far from agreement. Before me now is a comprehensive chart on box-office strengths prepared by National Box Office Digest, a trade weekly issuing from Hollywood, which rates the 1937 releases for monetary value.

Box-office smash of the year (according to the Digest) was "Saratoga," which did 71 per cent above normal business. Not a "critic's picture," this had the pulling power of Clark Gable plus the "freak draw" of Jean Harlow's posthumous appearance. Next came "After the Thin Man," included on at least one critic's "ten best." Then "Waikiki Wedding"—Big Crosby, Martha Raye, Bob Burns—and fourth, "The Awful Truth," 61 per cent above normal and a popular "ten bester."

The other "ten box-office bests" included "Thin Ice," "Maytime," "The Plainsman," "Lost Horizon," "One In a Million," and "A Star Is Born." Of these, "Lost Horizon" and "A Star Is Born" made many "critic's choice" lists.

Below these, but far above normal, are found such films as "100 Men and a Girl," "Stella Dallas," "The Good Earth," "Captains Courageous," "The Prisoner of Zenda," "Dead End," "Stage Door," "The Life of Emile Zola," and "Camille," each of which has found its way to more than one critical "ten best."

Of course, "Wee Willie Winkie," (Miss Temple) is rated equally with "100 Men and a Girl," and such hodgepodges as "Double Wedding" and "Artists and Models" have outdrawn—so far—both "Zola" and "Camille" and half a dozen other critically approved films.

Critics and public diverged most startlingly on "Make Way for Tomorrow," which is credited with a flop at 32 per cent under normal business. (It had no stars.)

Films mentioned above are listed as costing "over $500,000." In the cost bracket from $200,000 to $500,000 the smash hit was "Kid Galahad," 24 per cent above normal. In this group the critically lauded "Call It a Day" is rated 14 per cent under, "They Won't Forget" 21 per cent under, and "Night Must Fall,"—picked by one reviewing body as the unqualified best of the year—17 per cent under.

In another bracket—costs from $100,000 to $200,000—the leader is "Alcatraz Island," a surprise hit in its class.

Lowest box-office ratings, in the respective brackets, go to "Fire Over England," "Beloved Vagabond," and "Tenth Man." The first and third of these are British productions.

'Keep Chin Up' Honey Tells Weary

By VIRGINIA LEE

SOME OF US have so much to be thankful for and we don't half appreciate it. Others seem to us to have so little, and keep so cheerful and gay. I am thrilled at their gallantry.

Do you remember the 17-year-old boy who wanted to end his life because he had lost his best pal? Following is another letter of comfort for him:

"DEAR WEARY: I'd like to help you. May I? You are very lucky, do you know it? Doubtless people have said it before concerning your ability to work, the money you receive, etc. But when I say it I mean it in a different way. Let me tell you:

"You are strong and healthy, are you not? You have two strong legs to take you everywhere. You don't have to depend upon crutches. THAT'S why you are lucky. I, too, am 17, and can't do these things. I'm not deformed, but my legs do not seem to like the idea of holding me up. But I don't mind. No, siree! I'm just so glad I'm alive! I'm good and healthy, hardly ever get sick. I've got everything—except my legs.

"Why don't you thank God, who gave you so much? Did He give you health and everything just for you to do away with it? He gave it to you for a purpose. He wants you to be grateful and use your body and mind to their fullest extent. Did you ever think of that, Weary? Do you think it would help if I said a few prayers every night for you? I will. Your pal must have been a grand person. Don't change his high opinion of you now by doing anything you'd be sorry for. I wish I could help you more.

"Keep your chin up, Weary, dear.

"HONEY."

Doesn't that letter make your eyes water just a little, readers, all? It did mine. Where are those elderly persons who are always talking about the present generation being "wild"? They better not come around here.

And, Honey, dear, I did not have Weary's address or know his real name, so I took the liberty of putting your letter in the column. I hope so much that you don't mind. It is a grand letter for all of us to read. Thank you so much.

* * *

NORMA: Dear little girl, I do not think you should hold the thing you tell me of against your boy friend. After all, he didn't know what he was going to see when he went to that carnival with his pals. If it had done him harm he would never have told you about it. He didn't have to, you know. All men have a natcral curosity about women, but that doesn't mean that they are immoral.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

NO REASON TO PASS

Weakness is never an excuse for passing an informative or takeout double. In fact, it is the contrary. The weaker the hand, the more important it is to bid some suit of four or more cards, unless the only such suit is one called by the opponents, in which event the player with a weak hand can take a chance on a shorter suit, preferably a minor. To pass the double with a weak hand means simply presenting the opponents a gift of some hundreds of points.

	♠ K Q 3 ♥ Q 9 7 5 3 ♦ 9 ♣ Q 8 3 2
♠ J 10 4 2 ♥ A K J ♦ K J 10 5 ♣ K 4	N. W. E. S.	♠ 9 5 ♥ 10 8 6 4 2 ♦ Q 8 3 2 ♣ 9 6
	♠ A 8 7 6 ♥ None ♦ A 7 6 4 ♣ A J 10 7 5

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

With both sides vulnerable in a rubber game, South bid 1-Club here, West doubled, North passed and so did East. South redoubled and West passed to see what action East would now take when the bidding got around to him, but East still passed.

West led the spade 2, which declarer won with the Q. He now played the diamond 9, which he won with the A. A diamond was ruffed in dummy and a heart in the South hand. Diamonds and hearts were ruffed for three rounds and the declarer ended by making five.

When West remonstrated with his partner for taking no action in response to his double, East's retort was that he held nothing and that 1-Club, redoubled, would not give them game. He failed to reckon what the vulnerable overtricks amounted to.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ A K J 7 6 5 ♥ 7 ♦ J ♣ 9 8 7 6 4
♠ 4 ♥ K J 9 5 ♦ A 10 4 ♣ A K Q J 5	N. W. E. S.	♠ Q 10 9 3 2 ♥ None ♦ 8 7 6 3 2 ♣ 10 3 2
	♠ 8 ♥ A Q 10 8 6 4 3 2 ♦ K Q 9 5 ♣ None

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

How should the bidding proceed on this deal after West's 1-Club bid?

One teaspoon of onion juice or half a sliced raw onion added to mashed potatoes gives them a different flavor.

—Beauty—

Colors Play Part In Beauty

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

IT IS MY belief that every woman has a definite craving for beauty. But I have found that a good many women haven't the faintest idea how to acquire that loveliness that they so desire.

Take the blonde, for instance, natural or bleached. If the blonde takes care of her hair, she really can make it a gleaming halo of beauty. But she must not consider her hair alone. She must consider color harmony, too. And she must be most careful of the shades of makeup and gowning she employs.

What the blonde whose tresses are bleached often seems to forget is that when she changes the color of her locks, a change in makeup shade is necessary. The hair serves as a background for the face, and nature makes the hair a shade that harmonizes with the face's coloring.

When the hair is bleached, then, the face is given a foreign background, and often it is a background that doesn't harmonize with the general coloring of the face at all.

The bleached blonde should strive to attain the facial coloring of the natural blonde. In lipstick and rouge, it is best for the bleached blonde to stick to warm, reddish hues with yellowish overtones. For these are the reds and yellows of vibrant youth. The purplish reds are far too deep in tone, and too aging. Her powder should be light in tone, but should have a creamy, shell cast. Her eye makeup should be given a great deal of thought. Her eyeshadow should match or harmonize with the color of her eyes. But she should avoid using black mascara and eyebrow pencil, for they will tend to give her face a hard look. Brown shades of mascara and eyebrow pencil are softer, and are much more effective.

Colors of Gowns.

The colors that the blonde adopts for her gowns are also most imorptant, since they form the background for her hair. The golden-haired blonde, whether artificial or natural, should avoid vivid, bright colors. For the transparent-skinned, delicately-colored girl of this type, orchid, pinkish beige, black, cool blues and greens, pastels and medium shades that have flattering overtones are best.

The ash blonde and the platinum blonde demand an altogether different color scheme from the golden-blonde, however. The real platinum blonde and the real ash blonde usually possess skin that is fair, with a slightly rosy hue. And for such, scarlet, which is somewhat daring but most becoming, black, pearl gray, purple, silver, violet, white and crimson are most becoming. Deep midnight blues also help to set off platinum and ash blonde hair most attractively.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I PRETENDED to enter heartily into the fun as Dicky gave me the runner's signal for me to dash down the hall to my room for the race into tennis things which he had proposed. But though my heels were swift and light, my heart was heavy as the traditional lead, because more firmly with every moment was the conviction of Dicky's duplicity becoming imbedded in my brain and heart.

In theatrical parlance, I would be known as "a quick change," and I raced through the discarding of my housegarments and the donning of my tennis garb. I think that away back in my brain was the almost sub-conscious thought that I might be back at Dicky's door in time to see him lock it, and listen with malice to whatever excuse he might bring forth for the action.

But swiftly as I dressed, Dicky was faster, and when I left my own door, it was to see him already in the hall half way to mine. I had been too late to see him lock his door and pocket the key, actions which I was sure he had just performed. But my eyes, trained to close observation of sartorial omissions in my school-teaching days, saw immediatey that he had forgotten to tie one of his shoes.

"Aha!" he said gloatingly as he came up to me. "Produce your nickel!"

"Aha yourself, and many of 'em!" I retorted, pointing an accusing finger at the trailing shoelace.

He grinned sheepishly as he stooped to tie it.

"It must have come untied," he said, but I held out my hand implacably.

"You should have made sure of it," I told him sternly. "I claim the wager."

"All right, all right," he said, "but I'll have to owe it to you. I have nothing but a ten-cent piece and a quarter in change, and they are in the pocket of my gray suit. I'm not going back and traipse around for change now."

"I'll compromise on the dime after the game," I told him, laughing, and we went downstairs and out to the tennis court, apparently as carefree and comradely a married couple as one would find anywhere.

Suspicion Persists.

With my handicap, I managed to keep Dicky to a tie, and when we returned to the house after several hard-fought sets, the venom of suspicion should have been exercised from my soul with the healing influence of sunlight, fresh air and exercise. But I found that when the excitement of the games was over, I was conscious of the return of the old gnawing suspicion of Dicky that had made a veritable hell of more than one period of time in our early days together.

I could not rid myself of the suspicion that his secrecy concerning his room was associated in some way with his insistence upon my coming into the city because he wanted me at hand "at a moment's notice." Was it linked with Edith Fairfax's crazed letter, warning me that Dicky was in a "jam" of some kind, at the same time that she announced her imminent return to the city and the executive post which had been hers on the magazine of which she and Dicky were joint owners?

My common sense and my "better self" told me that if Dicky were anxious to have me help him out of whatever dilemma he was facing, he could not be hiding anything very incriminating in his room. But when was jealousy ever sane? I fought the emotion all through dinner and found it a distinct relief when the telephone, for which I had been listening, sounded what I was sure was a call from Philip Veritzen.

Professional Workers Ask Social Hints

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Off and on over a period of several years I have been employed as nurse by a family which is soon to have a wedding. I am on duty in their house now, taking care of a sick grandmother. I did not know this family before my professional contact, and while I am always treated with the utmost consideration, I do not feel very near to any of them. I merely give this background before asking you what I should do about accepting an invitation I have just received, at my home address, to the wedding and reception. Shall I consider this a bona-fide invitation and accept it, or shall I believe it was sent as a gesture of courtesy only, which I am not expected to consider seriously? And what about sending a wedding present? And since I am working in the house now, do you think it better for me to decline, or accept, verbally rather than by written note?

Answer: There is no such thing as an invitation which isn't an invitation! It is entirely proper to accept the invitation—if you can! Or on the other hand, to regret it if you prefer, or if you must. By this I mean that if your patient would suffer during your absence, then you could not very well go and should for this reason decline. But if you are free to go and you like the bride and would therefore be glad to accept, then do so by all means. In any case I think it would be very nice to send a small present—nothing of any importance but just enough to take her your good wishes. It would be simplest, and therefore best, to accept the invitation verbally: "It was very kind of you to send me an invitation. Unless Mrs. Elderly needs me at the moment I shall certainly love to have a glimpse of the wedding."

Drsr Mrs. Post: In a house where they are invited to eat with the family, are both a trained nurse and a governess expected to stay at the table until the family leave? And if they may be excused, what do they say before leaving the table and who do they say it to?

Answer: The nurse should excuse hereself when she has finished in order to return to her patient if it happens that she has finished before the rest of the family. If the patient is at the table, she waits until the end of the meal. The governess would also not leave until the children do. Both nurse and governess would leave the family in the living room unless needed, or invited to stay. When either of them has reason to leave the table she makes her excuses to the lady of the house, or whoever is sitting in her place.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, January 14.

ACCORDING TO the lunar transits for this day, there may be various kinds of portentous situations to confront. Writings, documents and legal matters may need wise consideration. Fraud and loss and possibly bereavement may be devastating. Old matters appear complicated and may be better for further postponements.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is should be prepared for a year in which sound judgment, patience and perseverance may be required to sidestep some ominous situations Legal matters, documents, letters or other writings are involved, calling for precaution against loss, trickery, fraud and malicious enmity. Old matters, elders and the health may give concern also; protect each of them.

A child born on this day may be clever and talented but disposed to put over its schemes and shrewd ideas through smooth practices, trickery or easy methods. This may bring it into legal jeopardy or some form of public penalty, unless it be given rigorous training in honor and integrity in its earliest youth.

To protect the burned surface of the skin from the air and thus lessen pain, apply carron oil, olive oil, butter; cold cream or even thick cream taken from milk.

Don't Neglect Your Child's Cold
Don't let chest colds or croupy coughs go untreated. Rub Children's Musterole on child's throat and chest at once. This milder form of regular Musterole penetrates, warms, and stimulates local circulation. Floods the bronchial tubes with its soothing, relieving vapors. Musterole brings relief naturally because it's a "counter-irritant"—NOT just a salve. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. Three strengths: Regular, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.
